Subjects that will not be considered for publication in Food Research International, and will be rejected as being outside of scope, include :

This is also valid for any other chemical compounds such as phytochemicals and minor components of foods. Compounds of interest need to be characterized at least by mass spectrometry-based methods. Studies that do not clearly prove the relationship between the structure of the compounds and their activity; Fingerprinting studies lacking molecular insights and validation sets; Studies on antimicrobial compounds that do not consider a validation step in foods, lacking full data on chemical composition indicating the compounds responsible for the inhibitory activity and, when appropriate, the use of molecular biology approaches to support the findings; Development
