Operational Templates and Guidance for EMS Mass Incident Deployment Federal Emergency Management Agency, U.S. Fire Administration, 2012-06 Emergency Medical Services EMS agencies regardless of service delivery model have sought guidance on how to better integrate their emergency preparedness and response activities into similar processes occurring at the local regional State tribal and Federal levels The primary purpose of this project is to begin the process of providing that guidance as it relates to mass care incident deployment While not a comprehensive guidance document this project should serve as a foundation for further development of EMS specific policies and templates that improve EMS readiness to manage the full spectrum of hazards that face their communities Football governance Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2011-07-29 Additional written evidence is contained in Volume 3 available on the Committee website at www.parliament.uk/cmscom Systems Thinking Methods in Sport Scott Mclean, Mitchell Naughton, Gemma Read, Neville A. Stanton, Adam Hulme, Guy Walker, Paul Salmon, 2024-09-26 Sport is increasingly being described as a complex system This inherent complexity cannot be understood by examining components in isolation rather the system as a whole should represent the unit of analysis Systems thinking is the answer to understanding this complexity and is gaining traction in sport Systems thinking provides a philosophy and a set of associated methods which can be used to understand and optimise the behaviour of complex systems such as those inherent within sport This book presents for the first time a practical guide to applying contemporary systems thinking methods in sport as well as case study applications demonstrating how their outputs can be translated in practice The methods described in this book can be used for better understanding the systemic influences in a broad range of sport contexts including performance injury team functioning decision making adverse incidents sports organisation design and redesign technology implementation and proactive risk assessments Systems Thinking Methods in Sport provides a practical step by step guide for sports practitioners and stakeholders as well as university students and academics in applying state of the art systems thinking methods to sport Department of State Publication , 1948 The Biographic Register of the Department of State United States. Ranking Business Schools Linda Wedlin, 2006-01-01 In her admirable book Wedlin entangles what business school rankings really are and why they have become so important The book contains plenty to interest the growing army of business school employees whose duties at least in part are concerned with boosting their institution's position in the rankings Education and Training In times when the management education field is increasingly impacted by a proliferation of ranking exercises this book is a timely and welcome contribution Linda Wedlin unpacks for us the real meaning of the contemporary explosion of rankings Rather than simple classification schemes and mechanisms rankings are she suggests arenas where the field of business education is being created and re created They are the loci of boundary work whereby a field is progressively evolving and constituting itself This is a convincing study relying on rich empirical data and carefully anchored in relevant theoretical debates A must read for all those academics students policy makers and education professionals who want to understand the complex contemporary logics of higher education in management but also probably well beyond Marie Laure Djelic ESSEC Business School Paris France League tables appear everywhere and have become important aspects of business school environments Based on in depth and creatively combined empirical studies Linda Wedlin provides us with explanations and insights on the emergence and impact of such rankings This book should be of great value for all those who seek to play the ranking game It gives a fresh perspective on how classification mechanisms drive the emergence boundary setting and change of organizational fields Kerstin Sahlin Andersson Uppsala University Sweden A fascinating study of the complex issues surrounding MBA rankings Business schools really hate them but at times have to pretend to love them Magazines and newspapers are really interested in their sales potential but have to make pretensions about their veracity Linda Wedlin focuses on an area rich in hypocrisy and hype but also one where there are real consequences ranking furthered re inforces the homogenising tendencies of MBAs Anthony Hopwood Sa d Business School University of Oxford UK This is a most fascinating topic dealt with in a manner which is both serious and entertaining everyone in a business school would want to read it Linda Wedlin's excellent research is presented with a no nonsense approach if there is anything worth counting she counts it and then interprets it no fuss Exemplary Barbara Czarniawska Gteborg University Sweden This engaging book offers a fresh perspective on the burgeoning field of European management education and its intense concern with rankings Using a creative mix of well crafted research tools Wedlin deftly captures a professional field in transition as it both expands and develops shared standards Walter W Powell Stanford University US International comparisons and rankings of universities and business schools have proliferated in recent years Ranking Business Schools provides a welcome analysis of this development and its implications for the field of management education theorizing the role of classifications such as rankings in forming and structuring organizational fields Focusing on the European experience with rankings and the subsequent response the book illustrates how business schools use rankings to form identities and positions and to draw boundaries for the field By both creating and confirming belonging to a business school community and providing distinction within that group rankings are important for defining an international field of management education organizations constructing an international business school market and constitute an arena for debating and establishing the boundaries of this field Building an extensive theoretical framework for understanding classification
