Coe, Henry Wai-Chung Yeung, 2015 Accelerating processes of economic globalization have fundamentally reshaped the organization of the global economy towards much greater integration and functional interdependence through cross border economic activity In this interconnected world system a new form of economic organization has emerged Global Production Networks GPNs This brings together a wide array of economic actors most notably capitalist firms state institutions labour unions consumers and non government organizations in the transnational production of economic value National and sub national economic development in this highly interdependent global economy can no longer be conceived of and understood within the distinct territorial boundaries of individual countries and regions Instead global production networks are organizational platforms through which actors in these different national or regional economies compete and cooperate for a larger share of the creation transformation and capture of value through transnational economic activity They are also vehicles for transferring the value captured between different places This book ultimately aims to develop a theory of global production networks that explains economic development in the interconnected global economy While primarily theoretical in nature it is well grounded in cutting edge empirical work in the parallel and highly impactful strands of social science literature on the changing organization of the global economy relating to global commodity chains GCC global value chains GVC and global production networks GPN      Complexity and Crisis in the Financial System Matthew Holloway, Folarin Akinbami, Randal Michie, 2016-01-29 What are the long term causes and consequences of the global financial crisis of 2007-2008 This book offers a fresh perspective on these issues by bringing together a range of academics from law history economics and business to look in more depth at the changing relationships between crises and complexity in the US and UK financial markets The contributors are motivated by three main questions Is the present financial system more complex than in the past and if so why To what extent and in what ways does the worldwide financial crisis of 2007-2008 differ from past financial crises How can governments regulators and businesses better manage and deal with increased levels of complexity both in the present and in the future Students and scholars of finance economics history financial law banking and international business will find this book to be of interest It will also be
