Gifted?: The shift to enrichment, challenge and equity Morgan Whitfield, 2024-07-19 Gifted and talented is a zombie It is dead but still walking around There are new labels to stratify students more able significantly able high aptitude learners New labels do not equal new thinking The concept of gifted is still stubbornly embedded in our educational structures with its legacy of social immobility racism and sexism Students can be more able when they have more financial resources more access more visibility or more cultural acceptance There are pervasive narratives that educators should prioritise extension for some students and not others We can dispel the myth that pitching lessons judiciously to middle ability and then differentiating up and down is effective This book explores how we can provide every student with rigorous challenge Challenge for all is an inclusive approach to teaching whereby every student is invited and given the tools to reach a place of mastery This can be through project based learning Harkness round tables oracy adaptive teaching inclusive enrichment programs dynamic classroom strategies and a schoolwide mission for equity Educators can embed powerful knowledge into the curriculum reimagine teaching to the top and stretch learners through personalised and responsive instruction The shift to enrichment challenge and equity creates magnificent possibilities The message to all students is you belong here

Neoliberalism, Cities and Education in the Global South and North Kalervo N. Gulson, Thomas C. Pedroni, 2016-04-08 Across the world cities are being reshaped in myriad ways by neoliberal forms of globalization a process of urban restructuring with significant implications for educational policy and practices The chapters in this collection speak to two complementary but analytically distinguishable aspects of the interplay between education globalization cities and neoliberalism The first aspect relates to the macro relationships between these powerful global forces on the one hand and cities and their schools on the other In particular the book considers the stratifying dynamics that exacerbate already existing inequalities related to race ethnicity language class and gender inequalities entailing differential access to the city s various resources The second aspect deals with the cultural politics and logics of these changes in the city This recognises that globalization is not simply imposed on the city but rather becomes insinuated into its fabric through the actions and the agency of local actors and social movements Against this backdrop the chapters document how the educational politics of urban contexts in the United States India Canada South Africa and Brazil should be understood as sites in which neoliberal forms of globalization are localised reproduced and potentially contested This book was originally published as a special issue of Discourse Studies in the Cultural Politics of Education Canadiana ,1984 Pushing the Limits Kelly Gallagher-Mackay,Nancy Steinhauer,2017-08-29 How do we prepare children for a future we can t even imagine Across Canada a debate swirls around what our children will need to know in the face of huge technological economic social and political change The question has become an ideological battleground and there is a hunger for a deeper understanding of what we should be doing to prepare children now for the challenges of the future This timely important book is an answer to that call In Pushing the Limits Kelly Gallagher Mackay and Nancy Steinhauer draw on their experiences as educational leaders to reveal that the schools of the future exist in the here and now They introduce us to extraordinary Canadian public schools deeply rooted in their communities that are fostering innovators nimble problem solvers and engaged citizens boosting math comprehension cultivating creativity and using technology to broaden the parameters of learning And they explore why the role of schools is expanding to nurture students social emotional skills and growth mindsets and how vital this broader definition of education is to children s long term health happiness and success This book provides a vision of what schooling can and should look like in our rapidly shifting world and explores how we parents and teachers can realize this vision together Being Smart about Gifted Children Dona J. Matthews,Joanne F. Foster,2005 Shows how to move from the Mystery model to the Mastery model Written for parents and educators especially those who live and work with gifted high ability children the authors describe ways to develop children s natural abilities Introducing the Mystery and Mastery models of gifted education the authors invite controversy by challenging several commonly held assumptions They then present practical strategies to help parents and educators identify and nurture the abilities of children with high ability This book answers the charges that special programs for gifted children are elitist The authors demonstrate that it is simply appropriate to provide educational experiences that each child needs at a particular time Educating the Gifted M.
