Physical Microbiology Guillaume Duménil, Sven van Teeffelen, 2020-09-07 This book emerges from the idea that specific physics inspired approaches are necessary to understand different stage of bacterial physiology and the infections they cause Many aspects of bacterial life depend on processes typically described by physical laws The rheology of biofilms is determined by complex cohesive forces Physical laws of diffusion are essential to all processes of bacterial metabolism The formation of the numerous bacterial biomacromolecules require complex self organization processes and their function are powered by potent molecular motors Host pathogen interactions during infection frequently occur in environments determined by fluid mechanics In this book different chapters represent research at the interface between microbiology and physics Topics range from intracellular organization to cell cell interactions A good part of the book is devoted to mechanical forces which are involved in the function of elaborate bacterial nanomachines chromosome segregation and cell division The effect of bacterial toxins provides an example of the alteration of cellular membrane properties by bacteria Symmetrically histones from mammalian cells alter bacterial membranes as a defense mechanism during infection The editors of this book Guillaume Dumail and Sven van Teeffelen have selected researchers at the forefront of research in physical microbiology to provide the most recent view in this fast moving field The contents of this book are designed to be accessible for scientists with training in biology and for scientists with training in physics The objective is to provide a fresh perspective on microbiology and infection by highlighting recent multidisciplinary research and favor rapid advances at this fruitful interface

Time-dependent spectrum analysis of high power gyrotrons Schlaich, Andreas, 2015-08-06 In this work a novel measurement system for the analysis of the gyrotron RF output spectrum was developed It enables unprecedented time dependent measurements within a large bandwidth dynamic range and unambiguous RF indication in the entire D Band 110 170 GHz Special attention was given to the investigation of parasitic RF oscillations and the analysis of the interplay of thermal cavity expansion and ionization based space charge neutralization at the start of long RF pulses
