Self-Directed Learning for the 21st Century: Implications for Higher Education Elsa Mentz, Josef de Beer, Roxanne Bailey, Per B. Bergamin, Chantelle Bosch, Adri du Toit, Roelien Goede, Aubrey Golightly, David W. Johnson, Roger T.

Johnson, Corné Kruger, Dorothy Laubscher, Anita Lubbe, Jako Olivier, Christo van der Westhuizen, Sukie van Zyl, 2019-12-12 This book is devoted to scholarship in the field of self directed learning in the 21st century with specific reference to higher education The target audience of the book includes scholars in the field of self directed learning and higher education The book contributes to the discourse on the quality of education in the 21st century and adds to the body of scholarship in terms of self directed learning and specifically its role in higher education Although all the chapters in the book directly address self directed learning the different foci and viewpoints raised make the book a rich knowledge bank of work on self directed learning

Psychosocial Pathways Towards Reinventing the South African University Sabrina Liccardo, 2020-11-02 This book proposes a conceptual empirical framework for exploring forms of continuity and change along psychosocial pathways in South African universities It illustrates how the psychosocial pathways are grounded in the symbolic narratives and knowledges of young scientists engineers and architects all interlocutors in the research from which this book is based Alala Mamoratwa Welile Odirile Kaiya Amirah Takalani Nosakhele Naila Ambani Khanyisile Itumeleng Ethwasa and Kgnaya provide collective standpoints in the multiplicities within and between the lived lives and told stories of young Black South African women in Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics STEM fields In doing so this compelling work advances possibilities for demythologising scientific endeavour as a white male achievement and shifting knowledge communities across gendered racialised class and national divides This book presents an innovative narrative methodology utilising the myth of the Minotaur to examine the state of the university at the heart of the hierarchical labyrinth in post apartheid South Africa Throughout the work the author wrestles with and self reflexively highlights her own positionality as a white middle class South African woman to examine how this affects the production of this research in ways which serve to preserve the colonial knowledge system With the rise of the Rhodes Must Fall and Fees Must Fall student movement in South Africa demanding for the fall of institutionalised racial hierarchies the author uses the cover image of narrative formations in the spirit of exploration to think with and through undulating networked forms that could possibly forge new psychosocial pathways towards decolonising and reinventing South African universities This work offers a unique conceptual and methodological resource for students and scholars of psychosocial and narrative theory as well as those who are concerned about the politics of higher education both in South Africa and in other contexts around the world

Origin and Evolution of Precambrian High-grade Gneiss Terranes, with Special Emphasis on the Limpopo Complex of Southern Africa D. D. Van Reenen, 2011-01-01 Language and Sustainable Development Lisa J. McEntee-Atalianis, Humphrey Tonkin, 2023-03-03 This book addresses the importance of language in matters of sustainability and incorporating such concerns in implementing the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) Sustainable language policy must aim to include all groups including language minorities and marginalized populations such as refugees and aid recipients in conditions that allow for their inclusion in making and implementing policy The book brings together nine studies covering such topics as language and digital resources sustainable and inclusive multilingual education national language policy and language in peacekeeping operations A final chapter addresses the crucial intersection between sociolinguistics and economics and the implications of this for development and the SDGs

Crustal Evolution of Southern Africa A. J. Tankard, Martin Martin, K. A. Eriksson, D. K. Hobday, D. R. Hunter, W. E. L. Minter, 2012-12-06 Syntheses of the geology of major areas of the Earth's crust are increasingly needed in order that the features of and the problems associated with the secular evolution of the continents can be understood by a wide audience Southern Africa is fortunate in having a remarkable variety of geological environments developed without many breaks over 3.8 Ga and many of the rock groups are household names throughout the geological world In one respect the geology of Southern Africa is particularly important cratonization clearly began as early as 3.0 Ga ago in contrast to about 2.5 Ga in most other continental areas such as North America This book documents very well the remarkable change in tectonic conditions that took place between the Early and Mid Precambrian we have here evidence of the very earliest development of rigid lithospheric plates This book is a tribute to the multitudes of scientists who have worked out the geology of Southern Africa over many years and decades Whatever their discipline each provided a step in the construction of this fascinating story of 3.8 Ga of crustal development In the book the reader will find a detailed review of the factual data together with a balanced account of interpretative models without the indulgence of undue speculation One of its attractions is its multidisciplinary approach which provides a stimulating challenge to the reader

Learner Performance in South Africa Charles Edward Wickens Simkins, Andrew Paterson, 2005 South Africa has done well to systematically expand its educational system and to lengthen the schooling experience of successive learner cohorts. But the quality of the output from the school system has been questioned. In seeking to identify the reasons for this it is important to relate educational outputs/competencies as measured for instance by examinations or standardized tests to inputs. Determining the relative contributions of the inputs of the school, the household and the individual learner to educational outputs is not straightforward, particularly since very little educational production function analysis has been undertaken in South Africa. Until recently no South African school data has incorporated test results, school characteristics and information on the household circumstances of individual learners necessary for this kind of analysis. However, the results from a survey of a sample of schools involved in the large scale Quality Learning Project (QLP) funded by the Business Trust have yielded such data. The QLP data set offers a new analytical opportunity to address the question: What are the effects of social and economic variables on educational outcomes in the QLP schools?

Career Coaching and Employability Skills Acquisition Otu, Mkpokanke Sunday, Sefotho, Maximus Monaheng, 2025-02-04. In today's fast-paced job market, employability skills are essential for individuals to adapt, thrive and contribute effectively in any professional setting. Employers prioritize candidates with a balance of technical expertise and soft skills such as communication, problem solving and teamwork, which are critical for long-term success. Developing these skills not only enhances career prospects but also empowers individuals to navigate workplace challenges and build meaningful professional relationships. By fostering these competencies, society benefits from a more adaptable and resilient workforce capable of driving innovation and growth.

Career Coaching and Employability Skills Acquisition examines the challenges of the modern job market and how individuals can acquire the necessary skills to excel in their chosen careers. It provides practical insights and strategies on enhancing employability skills. Covering topics such as career development, lifelong learning and youth experience, this book is an excellent resource for academicians, researchers, business leaders, economists and more.

Drum, 2009. Children in South African Families Nene Ernest Khalema, Monde Makiwane, Mzikazi Nduna, 2016-09-23. This book presents a comprehensive overview of African children's lives in times of transition, transformation and change, some twenty-two years after political emancipation in South Africa. With diverse family formations, non-marital childbearing and diverse parenting situations prevalent in South Africa, the book covers both the conceptual and theoretical questions that explore the context of children's experiences. It uses examples from a range of primary and secondary data sources to illustrate how resilience in children faced with adversity could be nurtured, demonstrating the links between theory and practice and critically commenting on questions of epistemology by drawing on research with children within different African social and cultural contexts. While the volume affirms the complexities of explaining child adversity or privilege, it stresses the diversity of South African children's experiences and the importance of adopting both children's rights and Afro-centric perspectives to account for the commonality and diversity of childhood and children's empowerment in diverse family systems. The contributions also provide recommendations on how to respond and intervene in children's issues from both practical and policy levels in a dedicated manner to ensure that children are protected from harm, nurtured to succeed and assisted during and after traumatic experiences. This volume represents a valuable resource for scholars and students in the fields of humanities, social science, development studies and public health as well as policy makers, child practitioners and child rights advocates.

A Tale of Two Cratons A. G. Jones, R.W. Carlson, H.S. Grütter, 2004-03-11. Given the established nature of geoscientific knowledge of the Kaapvaal craton compared to the Slave craton and given the exciting new interdisciplinary results coming from the Kaapvaal Project and from Slave craton studies, scientists working on both cratons were brought together in a workshop to compare and contrast the nature of these two cratons. Of the 54 papers presented at the workshop, 24 are included in this volume. There are clearly major similarities and differences between these two Archean cratons. The crust of both was predominantly formed in the Mesoarchean. Both contain crustal sections consisting of terranes of different ages welded together by Archean accretionary events. Both crustal sections are underlain by lithospheric mantle sections consisting of peridotites that experienced extensive partial melt extraction between 2.9 Ga and 3.2 Ga, but this is where the similarities between the cratons end. One of the most striking differences between the Slave and Kaapvaal cratons is the apparent seismic homogeneity of the Kaapvaal craton's SCLM, whereas the Slave craton is seismically layered. The seismic layering in the centre of the craton correlates laterally and with depth with electrical layering and geochemical layering. Taken together, these differences suggest that SCLM formation was different for the two cratons, implying that the search for a single causative formation process is bound to fail. Reprinted from the journal Lithos Volume 71 numbers 2-4.

Low-Income Students, Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa Melanie Walker, Monica McLean, 2022-07-15. This book explores learning outcomes for low-income rural and township youth at five South African universities. The book is framed as a contribution to southern and Africa-centred scholarship, adapting Amartya Sen's capability approach and a framework of key concepts: capabilities, functionings, context, conversion factors, poverty and agency to investigate opportunities and obstacles to achieved student outcomes. This approach allows a reimagining of inclusive learning outcomes to encompass the multi-dimensional value of a university education and a plurality of valued cognitive and non-cognitive outcomes for students from low-income backgrounds whose experiences are strongly shaped by hardship. Based on capability theorising and student voices, the book proposes for policy and practice a set of contextual higher education capability domains and corresponding functionings orientated to more justice and more equality for each person to have the opportunities to be and to do what they have reason to value The book concludes that sufficient material resources are necessary to get into university and flourish while there the benefits of a university education should be rich and multi dimensional so that they can result in functionings in all areas of life as well as work and future study the inequalities and exclusion of the labour market and pathways to further study must be addressed by wider economic and social policies for inclusive learning outcomes to be meaningful and that universities ought to be doing more to enable black working class students to participate and succeed Low Income Students Human Development and Higher Education in South Africa makes an original contribution to capability scholarship conceptually in theorising a South based multi dimensional student well being higher education matrix and a rich reconceptualisation of learning outcomes as well as empirically by conducting rigorous longitudinal in depth mixed methods research on students lives and experiences in higher education in South Africa The audience for the book includes higher education researchers international capability scholars practitioners and policy makers
