

Lesson 30: Special Lines in Triangles

Student Outcomes

- Students examine the relationships created by special lines in triangles, namely, medians.

Lesson Notes

In Lesson 30, we work with a specific set of lines in triangles: the medians. This is an extension of the work we did in Lesson 29, where we proved that a segment joining the midpoints of two sides of a triangle is parallel to and half the length of the third side, among other proofs.

Classwork

Opening Exercise (5 minutes)

Opening Exercise

In  $\triangle ABC$  to the right,  $D$  is the midpoint of  $AB$ ,  $E$  is the midpoint of  $BC$ , and  $F$  is the midpoint of  $AC$ . Complete each statement below.

$DE$  is parallel to  $AC$  and measures  $\frac{1}{2}$  the length of  $AC$ .

$DF$  is parallel to  $BC$  and measures  $\frac{1}{2}$  the length of  $BC$ .

$EF$  is parallel to  $AB$  and measures  $\frac{1}{2}$  the length of  $AB$ .

Discussion (5 minutes)

Discussion

In the previous two lessons, we proved that (a) the midsegment of a triangle is parallel to the third side and half the length of the third side and (b) diagonals of a parallelogram bisect each other. We use both of these facts to prove the following assertion:

All medians of a triangle are concurrent. That is, the three medians of a triangle (the segments connecting each vertex to the midpoint of the opposite side) meet at a single point. This point of concurrency is called the centroid, or the center of gravity, of the triangle. The proof also shows a length relationship for each median: The length from the vertex to the centroid is twice the length from the centroid to the midpoint of the side.
