Dimitrios Buhalis, Walter Schertler, 1999-01-12 During the last couple of years we learned that information and communication technologies have to be seen as key factors for the success in various industries Especially in tourism it became evident that missing the developments in this sector could not only be fatal for the unfolding of the businesses but also unrenouncable in order to withstand in competition The objective of ENTER is to show the chance that information technology offers for all participants in the touristic competition to act successfully in permanently changing information environments It reflects the important role of information technologies in this field Within the last six years ENTER united various experts practitioners as well as researchers to exchange their experiences ideas and visions in the sector of tourism and information technology The conferences scope is to provide an international platform to discuss the topical situation and future trends and the possibilities to shape the own strategies The various points of view of all the participants in workshops reports and discussions always lead to most interesting perceptions National Library of Medicine Audiovisuals Catalog

National Library of Medicine (U.S.), If You're in a Dogfight, Become a Cat! Leonard Sherman, 2017-01-10 Businesses often find themselves trapped in a competitive dogfight scratching and clawing for market share with products consumers view as largely undifferentiated Conventional wisdom suggests that dogfights are to be expected as marketplaces mature giving rise to the notion that there are bad industries where it is unlikely that any company can succeed But there are notable exceptions in which enlightened executives have changed the rules to grasp the holy grail of business long term profitable growth Rather than joining the dogfights raging within their industry companies such as Apple FedEx and Starbucks have chosen to become metaphorical cats continuously renewing their distinctive strategies to compete on their own terms In If You're in a Dogfight Become a Cat Leonard Sherman draws on four decades of experience in management consulting venture capital and teaching business strategy at Columbia Business School to share practical advice on two of the most vexing issues facing business executives why is it so hard to achieve long term profitable growth and what can companies do to break away from the pack Sherman takes the reader on a provocative journey through the building blocks of business strategy by challenging conventional wisdom on a number of questions that will redefine management best practices What should be the overarching purpose of your business Do you really know what your strategy is Is there such a thing as a bad industry Where do great ideas come from and how do I find them What makes products meaningfully different What makes and breaks great brands How and when should I disrupt my own company What are the imperatives to achieving long term profitable growth Filled with dozens of illustrative examples of inspiring successes and dispiriting falls from grace this book provides deep insights on how to become the cat in a dogfight whether you are a CEO mid level manager aspiring business school student or curious observer interested in achieving sustained profitable growth Books in Print ,1991
