Using a Dichotomous Classification Key to Identify Common Freshwater Fish of New York State

Special Thanks to Rick Marshall, Massena High School, Massena NY for his contributions to the re-creation of this lab experience.

Background: A dichotomous key is a tool that allows the user to determine the identity of items in the natural world, such as trees, wildflowers, mammals, reptiles, rocks, and fish. Keys consist of a series of "either/or" choices that lead the user to the correct name of a given item. "Dichotomous" means "divided into two parts". Therefore, dichotomous keys always give two choices in each step.

Dichotomous keys are extremely important tools in science and even in fields like auto repair and crime investigation. This lab uses the identification of some common types of North American fish as an example of how to use a dichotomous key.

Purpose: The purpose of this laboratory experience is:

- to correctly use a dichotomous key for identifying common freshwater fish found in New York State.
- to understand how scientists in a variety of fields use classification keys to identify specimens.
- to further understand the necessity of the Linnean classification system
- to correctly identify unknown specimens

Materials: The following materials are needed to complete this laboratory experience:

Lab papers
Pen and pencil
Specimen cards and diagrams

Procedure: The following procedure is utilized to perform this experience:
