A. I. Bouchier Hayes, John Fry, Eric Gambrill, Alistair Moulds, K. Young, 2012-12-06 The Membership examination of the Royal College of General Practitioners has evolved and matured as a seal and a test on completion of vocational training More than 1000 candidates are taking the examination each year and an increasing majority are trainees who have completed their three year training period The whole concept and philosophy of the MRCGP has been questioned by critical cynics who refuse to accept general practice as a field of medical practice worthy of recognition as a specialty with its own core of knowledge skills and expertise and with its own special epidemiology pathology clinical presentations and management These cynical critics are being answered by the growth of the examination and its recognition within the profession as an important and necessary goal to be achieved The MRCGP exam has arrived it is here to stay and it will continue to grow and evolve The exam is no easy obstacle to negotiate It has a regular failure rate of 1 in 3 and it requires special preparation and study of its examinees if they are to understand its aims contents and methods It must not be assumed that even the brightest trainee can walk off the street enter the examination hall and be confident of passing It requires a few months of careful and guided preparation The MRCGP Examination A. MRCGP Peter G. Elliott, 2012-12-06 This book contains 300 multiple choice questions and is equivalent to five full MRCGP examinations. However, the layout is not as five examinations but in the 15 subjects which have been chosen as relevant to general practice by the MCQ group of the Royal College of General Practitioners Examiners. I hope that using this format of individual sections will enable the book to have a wider use than just as a crammer for the exam; it should also serve as an aid to trainers and course organisers in assessing trainees during their vocational training. The questions themselves are in the usual multiple choice style with a stem followed by five responses which can be answered true, false or don't know. The usual scoring method for examinations is 1 for a true, 1 for a false and 0 for a don't know. In keeping with the current thinking of the College MCQ group, the stems have been kept as short as possible and an attempt has been made to adhere to standard nomenclature.

Learning to Consult Rodger Charlton, 2018-10-08 Information is vital for healthcare professionals striving to keep their practice current and based on the best available evidence. The Internet is playing an increasingly crucial role in life-long learning of health professionals and is becoming the most practical way to access publications on clinical guidelines, systematic reviews and for updating users about the key aspects of health policy. This book covers the diversity and variable value of material available on the Internet and takes a fresh approach to coping with information overload. It illustrates how simple techniques such as making and using smart maps, concept maps and mind maps can help clinicians keep up to date and how these methods can be applied to particular areas of healthcare. It provides numerous case studies in key areas including mental health, child health, primary care and care of the elderly. Mapping Health on the Internet is essential reading for all healthcare professionals and will assist in their learning and continuing professional development.

Examination for Membership of the Royal College of General Practitioners (MRCGP) Royal College of General Practitioners, 1990 The Journal of the Royal College of General Practitioners, 1984

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), A Question of Quality? Gordon McLachlan, 1976 A History of the Royal College of General Practitioners John Fry, R.J.F.H. Pinsent, 2012-12-06 John P. Horder President 1980-82 The first 30 years of the College have been an exciting experience for those most closely involved. Some have already passed on but this account has been written soon enough for many of the actors to be historians. Future members of the College will be grateful to them for what they have written as well as for what they did as a remarkably determined and harmonious team. Students of twentieth-century medicine in this country will also be grateful for a first-hand account of the development of an institution which has been closely associated with and partly responsible for important changes in medical care and education. Those who read these pages may wonder how the builders of this young College could have found time to do much general practice They did The three editors of this history which covers 25 years and the general practitioner members of the Steering Committee all ran large practices in which they worked very hard throughout that time Most of their work for the College was done during off duty hours weekends and holidays The College could not have developed as it did had they not been personally concerned with the practical problems and needs of clinical medicine This is also true of many of the contributors It is impossible to mention everyone who deserves credit The editors hope that they may be forgiven for any serious omissions

Practitioner ,1990 Educating the Future GP Patrick McEvoy,1998 This excellent book is long overdue It will be of benefit to anyone with an interest in general practitioner education and anyone considering applying for the post of course organiser should read the opening chapters to prepare them for interview This is a thoughtful book written in a clear and witty style and it deserves a wide readership It provides an educational framework on which general practitioner teaching can be based British Journal of General Practice This book is excellent because it deals not only with the nuts and bolts of being a course organizer but also addresses the difficulties frustrations and emotions involved in a witty and entertaining manner Anyone with an interest in postgraduate medical education at any level would benefit from reading this book Update Paddy McEvoy s book has rapidly and deservedly established itself as invaluable to anyone responsible for any form of postgraduate medical education Education for General Practice As well as updating and revising the book throughout Paddy McEvoy has managed to include sections about the wider context of training without making the book overly long or losing any of the delightful flavour of the first edition I have no doubt that you will find it both useful and enjoyable

BMJ ,1993 Transcultural Medicine B. Qureshi,2012-12-06

WHY WE MUST PRACTISE TRANSCULTURAL MEDICINE Health professionals and GPs should concern themselves with ethnicity religion and culture as much as with the age sex and social class of their patients Transcultural medicine is the knowledge of medical and communication encounters between a doctor or health worker of one ethnic group and a patient of another It embraces the physical psychological and social aspects of care as well as the scientific aspects of culture religion and ethnicity without getting involved in the politics of segregation or integration English general practitioners and health professionals tend to regard everyone as English and to assume that all patients have similar needs Would that it were as simple as that For economic reasons based on supply and demand the mass migration of working populations from the new Commonwealth countries along with their dependent relatives including their parents to Britain took place during one decade the 1960s Broadly speaking the workers were in their thirties and forties and their dependent parents were in their fifties and sixties All these will of course be 30 years older in the 1990s

Cumulated Index Medicus ,1994 Top Tips for GPs Knut Schroeder,2018-08-07 For GPs and practice managers the challenge of the NHS reforms is to understand the business context in which general practice operates Of the many skills learned from commerce and industry needed for the development of an effective strategy business planning has been demonstrated to bring important benefits to the practice. However, for many, the concept is necessary but unfamiliar. This book sets out to demystify the subject, explains the benefits, and by way of numerous examples shows how they can be applied to the single-handed GP and group practices, whether or not they are fundholders. It suggests that good clinical care is not possible without the necessary planning and management skills to run a business.
