Art Educational Voyage Dr. Lonnie G. Ford, 2009-08-28 Several years ago I enrolled in a graduate course on educational research that focused on closing the achievement gap for African American children The course was structured to explore issues causes and concerns for the achievement gap Studying different educational outcomes reading books and articles we regularly shared our insights about some leading causes Most importantly we were instructed to stay within our subject areas when finding any contributions to that gap In my attempt to complete the assignment of researching possible causes in my discipline of art education I found myself frustrated and angry Why There were no research studies exploring how art education was a part of the equation leading to solutions in closing the gap In addition there were no basic instructions or curricula designed to make connections to the art student to develop critical thinking skills or to incorporate the use of students life experiences for learning Furthermore I felt that art education was used as a testing ground in urban schools like the Chicago Public Schools using Teaching Artists to teach art with no teaching certification or teaching qualifications Booth 2003 The purpose of this approach was to use their knowledge and practices of art to influence change in students learning This kind of experiment branched away from any real effort to integrate art education and truly recognize it as a viable core subject area While conducting research for the course I found that researchers defined the achievement gap between white and African American students solely in terms of the four core subjects of math science social studies and language arts with no attention given to art education e g Berlak 2001 Honig 2001 Limn 2000 Sacks 2000 A study by the National Black Caucus entitled Closing the Achievement Gap Improving Education Outcomes for African American Children November 2001 reports Make improving the literacy skills of students a top priority Students who cannot read will experience little success in school Reading is the key to academic achievement in every subject ranging from math and English to science and history We must put reading first by finding initiatives and programs designed to strengthen the reading skills of students particularly low performing students Again there was no mention of art As both an African American and an art teacher I found it very disturbing that the recommendations of many national and local art educational organizations and schools failed to address the importance of teaching art education in African American urban school settings My dissertation research ultimately arose from this concern

One, Two, Buckle My Shoe Nancy Cole Lutz, 2012-10-22 NOT STATISTICS BUT INDIVIDUALS live in these stories of personal quests to develop successful learning strategies These three students illustrate different learning styles One student was a strong visual learner with a need to acquire speaking and listening skills One exhibited such speed of thinking that he could not physically record his thoughts legibly One had such a strong auditory learning style that spelling both predictable and unpredictable words frustrated her No one method could satisfy the needs of these elementary students Instead approaches tailored to their needs were designed so that their academic careers would be enhanced

Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1976 Winning the Math Homework Challenge
Catheryne Draper, 2016-12-21 If you've ever been stumped by your child's math homework this is the book for you. Winning the Math Homework Challenge shares students' reasoning, thinking, and even misunderstandings about mathematics to provide you with the opportunity to see math through their eyes, including both the clarity and the confusion. Armed with this new sight and therefore insight, parents will be able to effectively communicate with their child about math experiences. This book focuses more on the why behind math relationships explained in plain English and through images that show mathematical relationships. The ability to recognize connections among math topics significantly reduces the confusion and frustration that can accompany math homework. By including more images and fewer formulas, readers, especially the visual spatial learners, are better equipped to understand how math concepts connect to each other. Finding and understanding these connections will allow parents to find their own math mojo and to pass on that legacy to their child. Beautiful

Testing Adam Goucher, Tim Riley, 2009-10-14 Successful software depends as much on scrupulous testing as it does on solid architecture or elegant code. But testing is not a routine process; it's a constant exploration of methods and an evolution of good ideas. Beautiful Testing offers 23 essays from 27 leading testers and developers that illustrate the qualities and techniques that make testing an art. Through personal anecdotes, you'll learn how each of these professionals developed beautiful ways of testing a wide range of products, valuable knowledge that you can apply to your own projects. Here's a sample of what you'll find inside: Microsoft's Alan Page knows a lot about large-scale test automation and shares some of his secrets on how to make it beautiful. Scott Barber explains why performance testing needs to be a collaborative process rather than simply an exercise in measuring speed. Karen Johnson describes how her professional experience intersected her personal life while testing medical software. Rex Black reveals how satisfying stakeholders for 25 years is a beautiful thing. Mathematician John D. Cook applies a classic definition of beauty based on complexity and unity to testing random number generators. All author royalties will be donated to the Nothing But Nets campaign to save lives by preventing malaria, a disease that kills millions of children in Africa each year. This book includes contributions from Adam Goucher, Linda Wilkinson, Rex Black, Martin Schröder, Clint Talbert, Scott Barber, Kamran Khan, Emily Chen, Brian Nitz, Remko Tron, Alan Page, Neal Norwitz, Michelle Levesque, Jeffrey Yasskin, John D. Cook, Murali Nandigama, Karen N.
