

Graduation Commencement Speech
May 7, 2016

By Michael N. Couick

Thank you President McConnell, Chairman Padgett, Trustees, graduates and other friends.

When President McConnell asked me to speak to you, I asked a favor. Please let me talk to my people. I want to talk to those brave souls who put their chips down on a degree like history, philosophy, or anthropology. Those brave enough to follow their own dreams rather than to just lease out their lifetime. You are my people, and I stand before you with my degree in English Literature—with a fondness for the wit of Jonathan Swift and a passion for the poetry of Robert Browning—to say:

1. You can both make ends meet and make a difference
2. Knowledge is never wasted, and
3. Each of you has a purpose.

The Cistern Yard is beautiful. It has to be the most beautiful graduation venue in America. And why not! It is in America's most beautiful and historic city. Oh, to be 21 again for just today. I'd have a hard time choosing between listening to Runaway Gin or BYOG at The Pour House, or kiteboarding on a northeasterly breeze at Breach Inlet. Probably both — with a burger from Poe's sandwiched in between.

Take two trips with me this afternoon. Let's leave the "here and now" for at least a few minutes.

For our first trip, start by looking up at these majestic Live Oaks. Think of all they have witnessed. From acorn to gnarled giants. Close your eyes. (Really. Just for a minute.) Focus on your breathing. Relax. Breathe.

Now. Capture a mental snapshot of the answer to this question: "Where are you from?"

Yes, where are you from? What do you see? What do you feel? Some good, some maybe not so good.

Open your eyes.

Let me share my mental snapshot: I am nine years old. Laying on my back. In the middle of a pasture near Clover, South Carolina. Green grass, white-head cows grazing around me. I hear the call of a bobwhite. I smell wild onions and grass clipped by a mower. I watch the reds, the pinks, and the oranges of the celestial crayon box melt to form a sunset. All is good. All is well. I

The Valedictorian of Being Dead Heather B. Armstrong, 2019-04-23 From New York Times bestselling author and blogger Heather B Armstrong comes an honest and irreverent memoir reminiscent of the New York Times bestseller Brain on Fire about her experience as the third person ever to participate in an experimental treatment for depression involving ten rounds of a chemically induced coma approximating brain death For years Heather B Armstrong has alluded to her struggle with depression on her website dooce It s scattered throughout her archive where it weaves its way through posts about pop culture music and motherhood In 2016 Heather found herself in the depths of a depression she just couldn t shake an episode darker and longer than anything she had previously experienced She had never felt so discouraged by the thought of waking up in the morning and it threatened to destroy her life For the sake of herself and her family Heather decided to risk it all by participating in an experimental clinical trial Now for the first time Heather recalls the torturous eighteen months of suicidal depression she endured and the month long experimental study in which doctors used propofol anesthesia to quiet all brain activity for a full fifteen minutes before bringing her back from a flatline Ten times The experience wasn t easy Not for

Heather or her family But a switch was flipped and Heather hasn't experienced a single moment of suicidal depression since

Breathtakingly honest Lisa Genova New York Times bestselling author self-deprecating and scientifically fascinating The Valedictorian of Being Dead brings to light a groundbreaking new treatment for depression The Valedictorian of Being Dead was previously published with the subtitle The True Story of Dying Ten Times to Live Civic Education in Polarized Times

Elizabeth Beaumont, Eric Beerbohm, 2024-07-23 Reveals the possibilities and challenges of civic education in circumstances of extreme polarization and how civic learning and political divisiveness can interact and influence each other As fears about polarization and its contribution to democratic crisis and corrosion rise many people have posited civic education as a possible remedy In a time of increasing political polarization what should the goals of civic education be and how should they be implemented In the latest installment of the NOMOS series Eric Beerbohm and Elizabeth Beaumont bring together a distinguished group of interdisciplinary scholars across philosophy politics and law inviting us to think deeply about the complex promises and pitfalls of civic education Contributors raise a variety of crucial considerations not only about how to educate citizens in a polarized era but also for a polarized era What types of civic learning hold promise for preparing students to navigate their way through a political landscape of escalating hostile factions distrust truth decay and disagreement about basic facts Could or should civic education attempt to reduce or counteract polarization or should it focus on other aims Beaumont and Beerbohm show us that the dynamics and circumstances of polarization do not stop at the schoolhouse gates but bring new urgency together with added pressures and constraints to all civic education As political polarization continues to intensify across the globe this riveting volume illuminates the significance the possibilities and the challenges of civic education in the contemporary era Valedictorian Constance W.
