New Ground Karen S. Sullenger, R. Steven Turner, 2015-05-07 Between 2004 and 2009 university educators practicing scientists museum and science centre personnel historians and K 12 teachers in Canada's eastern Atlantic provinces came together as a research community to investigate informal learning in science technology and mathematics The interdisciplinary collaboration known as CRYSTAL Atlantique was sponsored by Canada's National Science and Engineering Research Council In this volume the CRYSTAL participants look back on their collective experience and describe research projects that pushed the boundaries of informal teaching and learning Those projects include encounters between students and practicing scientists in university laboratories and field studies summer camps for science engagement after school science clubs for teachers and students innovative software for computer assisted learning environmental problem solving in a comparative international context online communities devoted to solving mathematical problems and explorations of ethnomathematics among Canadian aboriginal peoples The editors and contributors stress the need for research on informal learning to be informed continuously by a notion of science as culture and they analyze the forms of resistance that studies of informal learning frequently encounter Above all they urge a more central place for informal science learning in the larger agenda of educational research today The Nonprofit

11 chapters in this book provide a glimpse into the journeys that women from diverse backgrounds and ethnic differences take in their higher education undergraduate or graduate careers The diverse women include ethnicities of Arabic Asian African American American Indian and Latina PDS and Community Schools JoAnne Ferrara, Janice L. Nath, Ronald Beebe, 2022-07-01 How the Professional Development School and Community School strategy might benefit from an integrated perspective serves as the guiding framework for this volume of Research in Professional Development Schools This book advocates for blending these two approaches to address the needs of P 20 settings and their communities Because we recognize the inherent strengths in both models we encouraged chapters that had as a primary focus one or both models as they sought to support teacher preparation and K 12 partners Subsequently a series of questions framed the conversation around the potential for combining these models as well as what such an integrated model might present for teacher education programs K 12 partners and their communities Since this volume explores three different aspects of the relationship between Professional Development Schools and Community Schools a set of guiding questions were offered to guide the specific models addressed Youth Camp Safety Survey, Hearing Before the Select Subcommittee on Labor...91-1, on H.R. 763, May 15, 1969 United States. Congress. House. Education and Labor, 1969 International Perspectives on Gender and Mathematics Education Olof Steinhorsdottir, Helen J. Forgasz, Joanne Rossi Becker, Kyeonghwa Lee, 2010-06-01 Why a book on gender issues in mathematics in the 21st century Several factors have influenced the undertaking of this project by the editors First an international volume focusing on gender and mathematics has not appeared since publication of papers emerging from the 1996 International Congress on Mathematical Education Keitel 1998 Surely it was time for an updated look at this critical area of mathematics education Second we have had lively discussion and working groups on gender issues at conferences of the International Group for the Psychology of Mathematics Education PME for the past four years sessions at which stimulating and ground breaking research has been discussed by participants from many different countries Some publication seemed essential to share this new knowledge emerging from a wider variety of countries and from different cultural perspectives Third some western countries such as Australia and the USA have experienced in recent years a focus on the boy problem with an underlying assumption that issues of females and mathematics have been solved and are no longer worthy of interest Thus it seemed timely to look more closely at the issue of gender and mathematics internationally When the idea for this volume first emerged invitations were issued to those regularly attending the working and discussion groups at PME Potential authors were charged to focus on gender issues in mathematics and were given wide scope to hone in on the issues that were central to their own research efforts or were in receipt or in need of close attention in their own national or regional contexts Youth Camp Safety Survey United States.
