

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". See below to learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, increased weight changes, persistent pain, numbness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released by a gland into the bloodstream. They travel through the bloodstream and bind to that specific target cell. The target cell then produces a response. Hormones can be made by the endocrine system or by other parts of the body.

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when we are really frightened. The hormone adrenaline (also known as epinephrine) is released by the adrenal glands. Adrenaline makes the heart beat faster, lungs breathe faster, and muscles tense up. This helps us to run away from danger or fight back. The fight-or-flight response is triggered by the release of hormones that prepare the body to either run or fight. It is a survival mechanism. In other words, the body's response to stress prepares us to deal with the danger.

Today, we do not usually have to fight or run away from a lion or a bear. But our bodies still react in the same way when we are scared or stressed. The diagram shows the hormones that are released and the effect they have on the body.

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are two types of glands: endocrine glands and exocrine glands. Endocrine glands release hormones into the bloodstream. Exocrine glands release substances into a duct or onto the surface of the body. The diagram shows the location of the major endocrine glands in the human body.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine activities are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a balance. When a hormone level is too high or too low, the body sends a signal to the glands to either produce more or less of that hormone. The diagram shows how a feedback loop works.

The glands react to hormone changes in the blood in the same way. The glands only release enough hormone to bring the level back to normal. If the hormone level is still too high or too low, the glands will produce more or less of that hormone. This allows living organisms to maintain homeostasis.

Not all blood sugar changes are caused by the hormones insulin and glucagon. In some cases, the body can use other ways to maintain blood sugar levels. For example, the liver can store glucose and release it when needed. The diagram shows how the liver helps to maintain blood sugar levels.
