Dying & Living in The Arms of Love Tracey Alysso, 2012-08-23 RISING MAGNIFICENTLY in the wilderness of Western Tibet Mount Kailash is one of three sacred mountains in Tibet Its shape is unmistakable a symmetrical cone marked with striations and graced with perpetual snows Four rivers emanate from it nourishing the entire region Mount Kailash is the center of the spiritual universe It is sacred to four religions Buddhism Hinduism Bon and Jainism For Hindus it is the home of Shiva All of these statements are true of this magnificent mountain but the truest is what my teacher said to me before I left to do prostrations around Mt Kailash The center of the spiritual universe already exists in your human heart Meet your mirror

Folk Tales From Tibet With Verses from Tibetan Love-Songs W. F. O'Connor, 1893-01-01 A hare was going along a road one day when suddenly on turning a corner he came upon a large Tiger The Tiger at once seized the Hare and said that he was going to eat him Please please Uncle Tiger said the Hare holding up his thumbs in supplication please don't eat me I am only a very small beast and will make a very insufficient meal for a great big animal like you And if you will spare my life I will take you to where you can find a much bigger fatter creature than me for your supper Very well said the Tiger I agree to that But if you don t show me a much bigger animal than you are I shall certainly be obliged to eat you So he released the Hare and the two walked off along the road together As they went along night began to fall and when it was quite dark the Hare began smacking his chops and making sounds as if he was eating something very nice What are you eating Brother Hare asked the Tiger I am eating my eye Uncle Tiger replied the Hare I have taken it out and eaten it it is very nice and it soon grows again The Tiger was rather surprised at hearing this but being very hungry he proceeded to scrape out his own eye and eat it up After going a little further the Hare again began smacking his lips as if he was eating something What are you eating now Brother Hare asked the Tiger I am eating my other eye Uncle Tiger replied the Hare it is even better than the first The foolish Tiger on hearing this proceeded to scrape out his other eye and eat that The Tiger was now quite blind and the Hare led him along to the brink of a deep gulf where he advised the Tiger to sit down and rest for a while And after the Tiger was seated the Hare said Don t you find it cold Uncle Tiger shall I light you a fire Yes please Brother Hare said the Tiger I think a fire would be very pleasant

The Disempowered Development of Tibet in China Andrew Martin Fischer, 2013-12-20 Series Studies in Modern Tibetan Culture Lexington Books Weatherhead East Asian Institute Columbia University Since the central government of China started major campaigns for western development in the mid 1990s the economies of the Tibetan areas in Western China have grown rapidly and living standards have improved However grievances and protests have also intensified as dramatically evidenced by the protests that spread across most Tibetan areas in spring 2008 and by the more recent wave of self immolation protests that started in 2011 This book offers a detailed and careful exploration of this synergy between development and conflict in Tibet from the mid 1990s onwards when rapid economic growth has occurred in tandem with a particularly assimilationist approach of integrating Tibet into China Fischer argues that the intensified economic integration of Tibet into regional and national development strategies on these assimilationist terms within a context of continued political disempowerment and through the massive channeling of subsidies through Han Chinese dominated entities based outside the Tibetan areas has accentuated various dynamics of subordination and marginalization faced by Tibetans of all social strata Whether or not these dynamics are intended to be discriminatory they effectively accentuate the discriminatory assimilationist and disempowering characteristics of development even while producing considerable improvements in the material consumption of local Tibetans In particular strong cultural linguistic and political biases intensify ethnically exclusionary dynamics among middle and upper strata of the Tibetan labor force which is problematic considering the rapid shift of Tibetans out of agriculture and towards the highly subsidy dependent sectors of the economy especially in urban areas The combination of these disempowering dynamics with the sheer speed of dislocating and disembedding social change provides important insights into recent tensions given that it has accentuated insecurity while restricting the ability of Tibetan communities to adapt in autonomous and self determined ways The study represents one of the only macro level and systemic analyses of its kind in the scholarship on Tibet based on accessible economic analysis and extensive interdisciplinary fieldwork It also carries much interest for those interested in China and in the interactions between development inequality exclusion and conflict more generally
