Handbook of Employee Selection James L. Farr, Nancy T. Tippins, 2017-03-27 This second edition of the Handbook of Employee Selection has been revised and updated throughout to reflect current thinking on the state of science and practice in employee selection. In this volume a diverse group of recognized scholars inside and outside the United States balance theory research and practice often taking a global perspective. Divided into eight parts, chapters cover issues associated with measurement such as validity and reliability as well as practical concerns around the development of appropriate selection procedures and implementation of selection programs. Several chapters discuss the measurement of various constructs commonly used as predictors and other chapters confront criterion measures that are used in test validation. Additional sections include chapters that focus on ethical and legal concerns and testing for certain types of jobs e.g. blue collar jobs. Chinese for Specific and Professional Purposes Hongyin Tao, Howard Hao-Jan Chen, 2019-08-20 This book, likely the first of its kind in the English language, explores Chinese for specific and professional purposes (CSP) in terms of theorizing and developing practical applications for language teaching and learning. While research in language for specific purposes is thriving for languages such as English, there has been comparatively little such research conducted for Chinese. This volume attempts to fill the gap by bringing together practitioners from a broad international scholarly community who share common interests yet diverse orientations. Seventeen papers are included and address four broad thematic categories: 1. academic Chinese, 2. business Chinese, 3. Chinese for medicine and health care, and 4. Chinese for other broadly defined services and industries (diplomacy, tourism, wine tasting, etc.). Representing the state of the art in CSP research, the book offers an indispensable guide for anyone interested in theoretical and practical issues in this area of applied Chinese language studies

This book adds impetus to the nexus between human rights human rights education and material reality The dissonance between these aspects is of growing concern for most human rights educators in various social contexts The first part of the book opens up new discourses and presents new ontologies and epistemologies from scholars in human rights human rights education and human rights literacies to critique and or justify the understandings of human rights complex applications Today s rapidly changing social contexts and new languages attempting to understand ongoing dehumanization and violations put enormous pressure on higher education educators individuals working in social sciences policy makers and scholars engaged in curricula making The second part demonstrates how global interactions between citizens from different countries with diverse understandings of human rights from developed and developing democracies question the link between human rights and it s in ex clusive Western philosophies Continuing inhumane actions around the globe reflect the failure of human rights law and human rights education in schools higher education and society at large The book shows that human rights education is no longer a blueprint for understanding human rights and its universal or contextual values presented for multicomplexial societies The final chapters argue for new ontologies and epistemologies of human rights human rights education and human rights literacies to open up difficult conversations and to give space to dissonant and disruptive discourses The many opportunities for human rights education and literacies lies in these conversations
