5 Common Pitfalls to Avoid When Setting Goals

1 Starting too high

When you're just starting out, it's important to set goals that are achievable. If you set goals that are too high, you may become discouraged and give up.

2 Setting goals that are too vague

Consider this: "I want to be a better person." This is a very vague goal. It's difficult to measure progress and to know when you've achieved it.

Use the information you have about your client's abilities and interests to set specific, measurable goals.

3 Adding too many goals

Have you ever tried to do too many things at once? It's frustrating, isn't it? The same goes for setting goals. If you have too many goals, you may not be able to focus on any one of them.

Instead, set a few goals that are achievable and focus on those. As you progress, you can add more goals.

Remember, the goal is to help you reach your potential.

3 Steps to Setting Goals in Aphasia Therapy

1 Get to Know Your Client

Find out about your client's interests, abilities, and goals. This will help you set goals that are meaningful and achievable.

Collaborate with your client to set goals that are meaningful and achievable. This will help you set goals that are meaningful and achievable.

Even if your client doesn't want to help, you can still help them. Figure out what they need and how you can help.

2 Conduct a Needs Assessment

Yes, this really does help to identify strengths and weaknesses. It's important to know what your client can do and what they need help with.

Use the information you have about your client's abilities and interests to set specific, measurable goals.

Simple, measurable, achievable, specific, and time-bound goals.
