

1. Why do you want this mcdonalds team leader job?

Again, companies want to hire people who are passionate about the job, so you should have a great answer about why you want the position. (And if you don't? You probably should apply elsewhere.)

First, identify a couple of key factors that make the role a great fit for you (e.g., "I love customer support because I love the constant human interaction and the satisfaction that comes from helping someone solve a problem"), then share why you love the company (e.g., "I've always been passionate about education, and I think you guys are doing great things, so I want to be a part of it").

The Answer Is in the Room Alan M. Blankstein, 2011-06-02 The answer is not always in the room. Sometimes it's in the room next door. But help is often much closer than you think. Drawing on inspirational yet practical examples of health reform in Vietnam, courageous change in South Africa, and authentic improvements that get results in a range of American schools, Alan Blankstein demonstrates that throwing random reforms into the room through the door or shouting at people in the room from up on the roof are not ways that make positive change happen. Blankstein knows his people, knows his schools, and knows what brings about positive professionally driven change. This brilliant little book not only shows what works, it dignifies the overly criticized professionals who make it all happen.

Andy Hargreaves, Author and Thomas More Brennan Chair in Education, Boston College, MA. When the well-being of children is at stake, people of all stripes are called upon to put aside personal agendas, find the humility and courage to do what is right, and let go of what has not worked.
