Convention, 1985 A Great and Noble Occupation! Fiona Cownie, Raymond Cocks, 2009-09-03 The Society of Legal Scholars originally the Society of Public Teachers of Law was created in 1909 but was fortunate to survive its first half century It had few members lacked financial resources and was weak in influence In comparison with other university disciplines Law enjoyed a fragile status and was often held in low esteem by barristers and solicitors At times the SPTL was caught up in problems of its own making for instance refusing to admit women until the late 1940s But there were also moments of excitement and achievement the years between 1909 and the start of WWI were full of hope and new ideas and the establishment of the Journal of the Society of Public Teachers of Law in the 1920s was an important achievement for legal scholars During the social revolution of the 1960s the SPTL continued to function as a rather sedate gentleman's club gathering at its annual conference to socialise rather than to engage in academic debate The 1970s saw a sustained drive from its Young Members Group to create a new more serious organisation with better conferences and more effective decision making processes The Society evolved slowly but the process accelerated in the 1990s with members encouraged to reinforce their intellectual contribution to the discipline and act as a central point for policy debate within the legal academic community As we stand at the beginning of the twenty first century the Society with nearly 3 000 members has come a long way from its small beginnings Education for Knowing Paul A. Wagner, Frank K. Fair, 2020-10-30 If our goal is Education for Knowing as the title says then we need to be guided by a conception of what knowing is For example we can all agree that there are math facts that students need to learn and we can agree that there are general concepts and laws that students should be acquainted with But is there more involved perhaps something like nurturing in students a desire to probe deeper into the workings of things Or developing a capacity to explain why things work the way they do Our conceptions of what genuine knowing is serve as guides to what we think the goal of education is and they tell us how to build a student However as it turns out there are multiple conceptions of what knowing truly involves and these conceptions tend to be different for different sets of education stakeholders such as parents and their children school administrators and educational researchers Understanding this diversity of conceptions of knowing will make it easier for representatives of the different stakeholder groups to work together to accomplish the goal of building knowing students The Business Skills Collection: 30 Minute Reads Nicholas Bate, 2014-12-11 Introducing the 30 minute reads e book series You're half an hour away from a pain free working life So why not fill your down time with some up skilling The average commute to work is 30 minutes Why not kick start your New Year good intentions by using your commuting time to skill up And with five books in the series you could have the most productive week of your life Digitally native content optimized to be read on screen Each
