Feminisms and Ruralities Barbara Pini, Berit Brandth, Jo Little, 2014-12-18 Feminist concern with difference has rarely extended to rurality even if it is now widely recognized that experiences of inequality depend on intersections of several identities in each individual life This lack of concern may reflect the urban background of the majority of feminist academics or at least their urban positionality once in the academy It may equivalently be that feminists have been influenced by stereotypes of rural women as traditional and reactionary and thus seen them as unlikely exponents of gender equality and an unfruitful focus for scholarly energies Perhaps the problem is a broader one that is reflective of the much documented but still apparent unwillingness of many feminists to recognize and address difference in any of its manifestations Regardless even with the recent interest in intersectionality which has necessarily renewed and reenergized debates in feminism about diversity and inclusion the question of how women are differently positioned because of their non metropolitan location has remained largely overlooked Calendar University of Hull, 1980 Cambridge IGCSE Geography Revision Guide

Student's Book David Davies, 2014-04-17 Cambridge IGCSE Geography Revision Guide has been designed specifically to meet the requirements of Cambridge IGCSE Geography syllabus 0460 It has been written to help students prepare for the Cambridge IGCSE Geography examination The book instills confidence by improving the students understanding of key concepts and adds focus to their revision Energy Consumption and Aging Populations Shigeru

Matsumoto, 2025-02-21 This book explores the impact of population aging on energy use patterns in society from both a theoretical and an empirical angle with a specific focus on Japan and Spain Many developed countries are currently experiencing both population aging and population decline while the demand for social services such as health care and public transportation is expected to increase This book expands upon these well known socioeconomic challenges and explores the less well known and more complex relationship between population aging time allocation to social practices and energy resource consumption In the face of energy supply scarcity and climate change concerns the impact of population aging on energy consumption is of paramount importance By focusing on the effects of changing time allocation patterns on social practices the book shows that the impact of population aging on energy consumption will affect not just only affect the residential sector but also other socio economic sectors of society Using data from Japan and Spain currently among the fastest aging countries in the world the volume shows that the challenges of an aging society are far more complex and worrying than previously anticipated If an aging society is an inevitable future we need to prepare for the challenges that lie ahead Written by researchers in the fields of demography economics environmental engineering geography physics and transportation engineering this book will compel academics and policy makers to reflect on these problems and act

Food Sovereignty and Urban Agriculture Anne Siebert,2022-07-08 This book analyses the interplay of urban agriculture and food sovereignty through the innovative lens of the critical urban food perspective It focuses on the mobilisation of urban food producers as a powerful response to highly exclusionary dynamics in the agri food system including insufficient food access and disastrous land dispossessions This volume particularly aims to fill the gap in the current literature by engaging with food sovereignty discourses and movements in urban areas Related activism of urban food producers in the Global South remains underrepresented in practice and in literature Therefore this book engages with the lived realities of an urban agriculture initiative in George South Africa Building on theoretical notions of the right to the city and everyday forms of resistance the book illuminates how deprived food producers expose inequalities and propose alternatives The findings of in depth empirical research reveal that dwellers perceive farming as a mean to overcome historical segregation high food prices and unhealthy nutrition Hence they breathe life into food sovereignty in practice and suggest further alliances beyond the city The book will be of interest to scholars and students of alternative food politics agrarian transformation and food movements as well as rural urban intersections
