

PHD PROPOSAL FOR ENERGY AUDIT AND ENERGY MANAGEMENT

Energy audit plays an important role in energy conservation and is an efficient method for any energy auditor to calculate losses in the system and estimate various method to minimize and overcome those losses. The process of energy audit is analytical, arranged, efficient, precise and thoroughgoing and use wastage of energy and hence attempts to reduce energy requirements.

Energy audit are the easiest way to find the gap between energy supply and demand. Energy audit is a consumption index that normalizes the state of the energy crisis by providing saving plans. Any organization called a large electricity consumer the use of appropriate energy saving technologies or solutions minimizes energy consumption. Collecting this information provides consumers the idea of improving energy efficiency and reducing costs. Energy control of lighting and management of electrical load audit work was carried out to evaluate energy consumption, therefore energy savings opportunities identified implementing energy efficient equipment or technologies to be adopted at the institution to minimize the energy consumption.

In Electrical Utilities focuses on basic principles, efficient operations, performance evaluation techniques of electrical energy systems and equipment's such as motors, compressors, refrigeration systems, pumps, fans and blowers, cooling towers, DG sets and lighting system. It also calculated for efficient use of electrical energy. In Thermal utilities focusing on performance evaluation techniques of primary fuel using equipment such as boilers, furnaces and cogeneration systems. It also contains guidelines for efficient use of steam and applications of waste heat recovery systems. Energy performance assessment for equipment and utility systems focusing on practical methods of assessing the performance in the field. Performance assessment requires the application of variety of instruments and numerous ways by which different parameters could be assessed. These aspects which would enable an energy auditor to carry out systematic and comprehensive performance assessment in order to identify areas for improvement.
