Climate Terror Sanjay Chaturvedi, 2016-01-12 Climate Terror engages with a highly differentiated geographical politics of global warming. It explores how fear-inducing climate change discourses could result in new forms of dependencies, domination, and militarised climate security. The Shadow of Kenyan Democracy Dominic Burbidge, 2016-03-09 Why has democracy failed to reduce corruption in Kenya? Framing the challenge in game-theoretical terms, Dominic Burbidge examines how mutual expectations between citizens dictate the success or failure of political reforms. Since 1992, Kenya has conducted multiparty elections with the hope of promoting accountability and transparency in government. This is being undermined by ongoing corruption and an increasingly centralised state response to terrorism. Providing a nuanced assessment of democracy's difficult road in Kenya, Burbidge discusses the independent role being played by widespread social expectations of corruption. Through tracking average views of the average person, it is possible to identify a threshold beyond which society suffers mutually reinforcing negative social expectations. This trend is the shadow of Kenyan democracy and must be treated as a policy challenge on its own terms before institutional reforms will be successful. Strong to Save: Maritime Mission in Hong Kong from Whampoa Reach to the Mariners' Club Stephen Davies, 2017-07-19 Tracing its origins back to 1822 in Whampoa, the Mariners' Club in Hong Kong was established to meet a specific need for an Anglo-Chinese society defined by that most dubious of activities: seafaring. Its creation was anything but straightforward, and in this can be seen the mutable and often tortuous relations between the various religious bodies, the local population, the transient sailors, the emerging captains of industry, and the growing regulatory reach of the colonial government. The club evolved through many embodiments and witnessed the growth of Hong Kong from a collection of mat sheds on the foreshore through colony to its current status. Throughout its turbulent past, it has been occasionally marginalized but has always served as an important base for the key actors in the main commercial activity in Hong Kong: seafarers. This is a history of one of the most enduring institutions of Hong Kong and the first of its kind. Using the Club's own records as well as a wide range of sources, both from within Hong Kong and from the seafaring world at large, this is a comprehensive account of the life of the Mission, the tenancy of the different chaplains, managers, and stewards, the changes in seafaring practices and shipping, and the transformation of Hong Kong itself. New Directions in Agrarian Political Economy Ryan Isakson, 2017-10-02 How relevant are the classic theories of agrarian change in the contemporary context? This volume explores this question by focusing upon the defining features of agrarian transformation in the 21st century: the financialization of food and agriculture, the blurring of rural and urban livelihoods through migration and other economic activities, forest transition, climate change, rural indebtedness, the co-evolution of social policy and moral economies, and changing property relations. Combined, the eleven contributions to this collection provide a broad overview of agrarian studies over the past four decades and identify the contemporary frontiers of agrarian political economy. In this path-breaking collection, the authors show how new iterations of

Reza Abdi,2017-09-05 This book explores a new framework of Adaptive Water Management AWM for evaluating existing approaches in urban water management It highlights the need to adopt multidisciplinary strategies in water management while providing an in depth understanding of institutional interactions amongst different water related sectors The key characteristics of AWM i e polycentric governance organisational flexibility and public participation are investigated and described through a critical review of the relevant literature The book presents an empirical case study undertaken in a selected developing country city to investigate the potential gaps between the current water management approaches and possible implementation of AWM Feasibility of AWM operations is examined in an environment surrounded by established water management structure with centralised governance and an institutional process based on technical flexibility The key elements of AWM performance are re structured and transformed into decision support systems Multi criteria decision models are developed to facilitate quantification and visualization of the elements derived from the case study which is involved with water companies and water consumers The book describes how the concept of AWM along with structuring suitable decision support systems can be developed and applied to developing country cities The book highlights the barriers for applying the AWM strategies that include established centralised decision making bureaucratic interactions with external organisations lack of organisational flexibility within the institutions and lack of recognition of public role in water management The findings outline that despite the lack of adaptability in the current water management in the case study as an example of developing countries there are positive attitudes among water professionals and the public towards adaptability through public institutional participation
