Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility Un-Habitat, 2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world s leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as

The Physical Geography and Geology of the Driftless Area Eric C. Carson, J. Elmo Rawling III, J. Michael Daniels, John W. Attig, 2019-11-04 Over the course of his 43 year career James C Knox conducted seminal research on the geomorphology of the Driftless Area of southwestern Wisconsin His research covered wide ranging topics such as long term land scape evolution in the Driftless Area responses of floods to climate change since the last glaciation processes and timing of floodplain sediment deposition on both small streams and on the Mississippi River impacts of European settlement on the landscape and responses of stream systems to land use changes This volume presents the state of knowledge of the physical geography and geology of this unglaciated region in the otherwise glaciated Midwest with contributions written by Knox prior to his passing in 2012 and by a number of his former colleagues and graduate students

Green Keynesianism and the Global Financial Crisis Kyla Tienhaara, 2018-04-17 It is widely accepted that limiting climate change to 2 C will require substantial and sustained investments in low carbon technologies and infrastructure However the dominance of market fundamentalism in economic thinking for the past three decades has meant that governments have generally viewed large spending programs as politically undesirable In this context the Global Financial Crisis GFC represented a huge opportunity for proponents of public investment in environmental projects or Green Keynesianism This book examines the experience of Australia Canada Japan Korea and the United States with Green Keynesian stimulus programs in the wake of the GFC Unfortunately on the whole the cases do not provide much optimism for proponents of Green Keynesianism Much less funding than was originally allocated to green programs was actually spent in areas that would produce an environmental benefit Furthermore a number of projects had negligible or even detrimental environmental outcomes While the book also documents several success stories the research indicates overall that more careful consideration of the design of green stimulus programs is needed In addition to concrete policy advice the book provides a broader vision for how governments could use Keynesian policies to work toward creating an ecological state This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental politics environmental economics political economy and sustainable development

Evaluating the Local Impacts of the Rio Olympics Marcelo Neri, 2020-07-05 This book evaluates the local impacts and legacies of the Olympics in Rio by comparing Rio2016 with other Olympic experiences and evaluating the ways in which the Games served the city. The 2016 Rio Olympic Games took place in a scenario of enormous economic challenges and persistent inequalities. In contrast to all previous Olympic experiences, Brazil faced its worst economic recession ever recorded during the preparation phase for the Games. In addition to the national crisis, falling oil prices and corruption scandals fuelled the State of Rio's economic downfall. This book specifically assesses the relative social performance of Rio's city population with respect to control groups. It covers traditional aspects of the Games legacy such as tourism infrastructure and sports practice, includes ordinary day-by-day aspects of the city's life such as education, employment and housing, and scrutinizes critical areas such as urban mobility, gentrification and Guanabara Bay's pollution. This thorough analysis offers readers further understanding on assessing the impacts and legacies of the Olympic experience. It will be of great interest to upper-level students and academics of tourism, hospitality and events management. Malaysian Media Studies: Integrating Perspectives (UM Press)

Azizah Hamzah, Amira Firdaus, 2016. This edited volume revisits developments in the field of media education and media studies at a time when society is experiencing a ubiquitous networked digital media environment. Rapid advances in media and communication technologies and the accompanying developments in social, cultural, political and economic realms pose unexpected challenges to the curricula of long-established media and communication schools. As opposed to rigidly structured nation-based mass media systems of the past century, the new global media sphere celebrates the breaking down of borders, whether spatial, cultural or social. Today, in the second half of the second decade of the 21st century, this problem translates into what and how to teach students of media who, in all likelihood, are more adept media consumers and producers than their teachers. In a region where educational institutions and educators don't transform as fast as media technologies do, there is a need to problematize and to reflect upon the situation. This edited volume examines critical issues related to media studies at local institutions of higher learning and includes a sampling of research charting new directions in local media scholarship. Contributions to this edited volume reflect the shared concerns of media educators and researchers in Malaysia and two neighboring countries, Indonesia and Thailand. Three main themes underscore this volume, reflecting their importance to the evolution of media education and to a certain extent, research as well: Historical development of media education and training; Current developments and future trajectories of media education in a globalized digital media environment; Analysis of media and society.

British Columbia's Borders in Globalization Nicole Bates-Eamer, Helga Kristín Hallgrímsdóttir, 2021-11-24. This book is a case study collection examining the influences and functions of British Columbia's BC borders in the 21st century. British Columbia's Borders in Globalization examines bordering processes and the causes and effects of borders in the Cascadian region from the perspective of BC. The chapters cover diverse topics including historical border disputes and cannabis culture and identity, the governance of transboundary water flows, migration and preclearance policies for goods and people, and the emerging issue of online communities. The case studies provide examples that highlight the simultaneous but contradictory trends regarding borders in BC while boundaries and bordering processes at the external borders shift away from the territorial boundary lines self determination local politics and cultural identities re inscribe internal boundaries and borders that are both virtual and real Moreover economic protectionism racial discourses and xenophobic narratives driven by advances in technology reinforce the territorial dimensions of borders These case studies contribute to the literature challenging the notion that territorial borders are sufficient for understanding how borders function in BC and in a few instances they illustrate the nuanced ways in which borders or bordering processes are becoming detached from territory The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Borderlands Studies
