Assisted History Matching for Unconventional Reservoirs Sutthaporn Tripoppoom, Wei Yu, Kamy Sepehrnoori, Jijun Miao, 2021-08-05 As unconventional reservoir activity grows in demand reservoir engineers relying on history matching are challenged with this time consuming task in order to characterize hydraulic fracture and reservoir properties which are expensive and difficult to obtain Assisted History Matching for Unconventional Reservoirs delivers a critical tool for today's engineers proposing an Assisted History Matching AHM workflow The AHM workflow has benefits of quantifying uncertainty without bias or being trapped in any local minima and this reference helps the engineer integrate an efficient and non intrusive model for fractures that work with any commercial simulator Additional benefits include various applications of field case studies such as the Marcellus shale play and visuals on the advantages and disadvantages of alternative models Rounding out with additional references for deeper learning Assisted History Matching for Unconventional Reservoirs gives reservoir engineers a holistic view on how to model today's fractures and unconventional reservoirs Provides understanding on simulations for hydraulic fractures natural fractures and shale reservoirs using embedded discrete fracture model EDFM Reviews automatic and assisted history matching algorithms including visuals on advantages and limitations of each model Captures data on uncertainties of fractures and reservoir properties for better probabilistic production forecasting and well placement

Historia Ludens Alexander von Lünen, Katherine J. Lewis, Benjamin Litherland, Pat Cullum, 2019-08-30 This book aims to further a debate about aspects of playing and gaming in connection with history Reaching out to academics professionals and students alike it pursues a dedicated interdisciplinary approach Rather than only focusing on how professionals could learn from academics in history the book also ponders the question of what academics can learn from gaming and playing for their own practice such as gamification for teaching or using play as a paradigm for novel approaches into historical scholarship Playing and gaming are thus understood as a broad cultural phenomenon that cross pollinates the theory and practice of history and gaming alike

Measuring African Development Morten Jerven, 2016-04-14 The chief economist for the World Bank's Africa region Shanta Devarajan delivered a devastating assessment of the capacity of African states to measure development in his 2013 article Africa's Statistical Tragedy Is there a statistical tragedy unfolding in Africa now If so then examining the roots of the problem of provision of statistics in poor economies is certainly of great importance This book on measuring African development in the past and in the present draws on the historical experience of colonial French West Africa Ghana Sudan Mauritania and Tanzania and the more contemporary experiences of Ethiopia and the Democratic Republic of Congo The authors each reflect on the changing ways statistics represent African economies and how they are used to govern them This book was published as a special issue of the Canadian Journal of Development Studies

Anticorruption in History Ronald Kroeze, André Vitória, Guy Geltner, 2017-12-01 Anticorruption in History is a timely and urgent book corruption is widely seen today as a major problem we face as a global society undermining trust in government and financial institutions economic efficiency the principle of equality before the law and human wellbeing in general Corruption in short is a major hurdle on the path to Denmark a fated blueprint for stable and successful statebuilding The resonance of this view explains why efforts to promote anticorruption policies have proliferated in recent years But while the subject of corruption and anticorruption has captured the attention of politicians scholars NGOs and the global media scant attention has been paid to the link between corruption and the change of anticorruption policies over time and place with the attendant diversity in how to define identify and address corruption Economists political scientists and policy makers in particular have been generally content with tracing the differences between low corruption and high corruption countries in the present and enshrining them in all manner of rankings and indices The long term trends social political economic cultural potentially undergirding the position of various countries plays a very small role Such a historical approach could help explain major moments of change in the past as well as reasons for the success and failure of specific anticorruption policies and their relation to a country's image of itself or as construed from outside as being more or less corrupt It is precisely this scholarly lacuna that the present volume intends to begin to fill The book addresses a wide range of historical contexts Ancient Greece and Rome Medieval Eurasia Italy France Great Britain and Portugal as well as studies on anticorruption in the Early Modern and Modern era in Romania the Ottoman Empire the Netherlands Germany Denmark Sweden and the former German Democratic Republic researchers are beginning to show strong evidence of credible academic output. These researchers all need valid outlets for their work and the security that authentic peer review brings to the reviewing process. In the fields of education, social sciences, and professional practices (e.g., architecture and law), recent years have seen the emergence of new outlets for practitioners' research outputs in areas such as one's own practice, self-reflection, and narrative inquiry. These outlets are discussed in this book. The book also discusses the malign influence of predatory publications in detail. This book will be beneficial to university academics, postgraduate students, Ph.D. supervisors, and new researchers.
