The Economic and Business History of Occupied Japan Thomas French, 2017-08-07 The Occupation era 1945-1952 witnessed major change in Japan and the beginnings of its growth from the ashes of defeat towards its status as a developmental model for much of the world. The period arguably saw the sowing of the seeds of the post-war flowering of what some term the postwar Japanese economic miracle. However, some scholars dispute this position and argue that the Occupation's policies and impacts actually hindered Japan's recovery. This volume addresses this question and others surrounding the business and economic history of this crucial period. The chapters presented in The Economic and Business History of Occupied Japan are authored by major scholars of the Occupation from the U.S., Japan and Europe. The chapters are divided into three sections: Planning reform and recovery; Industries under the Occupation; and Legacies of the Occupation era. Following an introduction focusing on the historiographical background, the first section examines zaibatsu dissolution and its significance, the role of

Japanese businessmen within the Occupation's reforms the crucial impact of Japan's postwar Materials Crisis and the impact of reform at the local level in Hokkaido Part two looks at a number of individual industries and their development during the era including the fishing automotive and cotton spinning industries The final section looks at the human impact of the changes of the initial postwar years including the reintegration of repatriates into the Japanese labour force and the impact of changing working patterns on society and family life This book covers a key period of the economic and business history of Japan and presents numerous new approaches and original contributions to the scholarship of the Occupation era It will be of interest to scholars of modern Japan economic history business history development studies and postwar U S Japan relations

Innovation John Trost Kuehn,2008-11-01 Agents of Innovation examines the influence of the General Board of the Navy as agents of innovation during the period between World Wars I and II The General Board a formal body established by the Secretary of the Navy to advise him on both strategic matters with respect to the fleet served as the organizational nexus for the interaction between fleet design and the naval limitations imposed on the Navy by treaty during the period Particularly important was the General Board's role in implementing the Washington Naval Treaty that limited naval armaments after 1922 The General Board orchestrated the efforts by the principal Naval Bureaus the Naval War College and the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in ensuring that the designs adopted for the warships built and modified during the period of the Washington and London Naval Treaties both met treaty requirements while attempting to meet strategic needs The leadership of the Navy at large and the General Board in particular felt themselves especially constrained by Article XIX the fortification clause of the Washington Naval Treaty that implemented a status quo on naval fortifications in the Western Pacific The treaty system led the Navy to design a measurably different fleet than it might otherwise have in the absence of naval limitations Despite these limitations the fleet that fought the Japanese to a standstill in 1942 was predominately composed of ships and concepts developed and fostered by the General Board prior to the outbreak of war The Fitch Bond Book Describing the Most Important Bond Issues of the United States and Canada ,1922 The Spectator ,1899
