Zhou,Stephen Mason,2015-08-06 Women drinking during pregnancy can result in Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder FASD which may feature variable neurodevelopmental deficits facial dysmorphology growth retardation and learning disabilities Research suggests the human brain is precisely formed through an intrinsic genetic cellular expression that is carefully orchestrated by an epigenetic program This program can be influenced by environmental inputs such as alcohol Current research suggests the genetic and epigenetic elements of FASD are heavily intertwined and highly dependent on one another As such now is the time for investigators to combine genetic genomic and epigenetic components of alcohol research into a centralized accessible platform for discussion Genetic analyses inform gene sets which may be vulnerable to alcohol exposure during early neurulation Prenatal alcohol exposure indeed alters expression of gene subsets including genes involved in neural specification hematopoiesis methylation chromatin remodeling histone variants eye and heart development Recently quantitative genomic mapping has revealed loci QTLs that mediate alcohol induced phenotypes identified between two alcohol drinking mouse strains One question to consider is besides the role of dose and stage of alcohol exposure why only 5% of drinking women deliver newborns diagnosed with FAS Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Studies are ongoing to answer this question by characterizing genome wide expression allele specific expression ASE gene polymorphisms SNPs and maternal genetic factors that influence alcohol vulnerability Alcohol exposure during pregnancy which can lead to FASD has been used as a model to resolve the epigenetic pathway between environment and phenotype Epigenetic mechanisms modify genetic outputs through alteration of 3D chromatin structure and accessibility of transcriptional machinery Several laboratories have reported altered epigenetics including DNA methylation and histone modification in multiple models of FASD During development DNA methylation is dynamic yet orchestrated in a precise spatiotemporal manner during neurulation and coincidental with neural differentiation Alcohol can directly influence epigenetics through alterations of the methionine pathway and subsequent DNA or histone methylation acetylation Alcohol also alters noncoding RNA including miRNA and transposable elements TEs Evidence suggests that miRNA expression may mediate ethanol teratology and TEs may be affected by alcohol through the alteration of DNA methylation at its regulatory region In this manner the epigenetic and genetic components of FASD are revealing themselves to be mechanistically intertwined Can alcohol induced epigenomic alterations be passed across generations Early epidemiological studies have revealed infants with FASD like features in the absence of maternal alcohol where the fathers were alcoholics Novel mechanisms for alcohol induced phenotypes include altered sperm DNA methylation hypomethylated paternal allele and heritable epimutations These studies predict the heritability of alcohol induced epigenetic abnormalities and gene functionality across generations We opened a forum to researchers and investigators the field of FASD to discuss their insights hypotheses fresh data past research and future research themes embedded in this rising field of the genetics and epigenetics of FASD This eBook is a product of the collective sharing and debate among researchers who have contributed or reviewed each subject

Designing Learning with Multimodality in English Medium of Education (EME) Classrooms Across Asia Fei Victor Lim, Jack

Pun, 2025-06-12 This book provides evidence based and pedagogically focused analyses of a variety of multimodal resources to scaffold learning in contexts of English Medium Education EME in Asia The contributing authors are active researchers in the field of EME and multimodality across the primary secondary and tertiary levels from Hong Kong Indonesia Japan Singapore South Korea Taiwan and Thailand They explore both the latest theoretical conceptions on the design of EME by harnessing the affordances of multimodality as well as practical applications of multimodal pedagogies for the teaching and learning of specific subjects particularly STEM subjects They provide examples of EME lessons with annotated notes to showcase good practice

POGIL Shawn R. Simonson, 2023-07-03 Process Oriented Guided Inquiry Learning POGIL is a pedagogy that is based on research on how people learn and has been shown to lead to better student outcomes in many contexts and in a variety of academic disciplines Beyond facilitating students mastery of a discipline it promotes vital educational outcomes such as communication skills and critical thinking Its active international community of practitioners provides accessible educational development and support for anyone developing related courses Having started as a process developed by a group of chemistry professors focused on helping their students better grasp the concepts of general chemistry The POGIL Project has grown into a dynamic organization of committed instructors who help each other transform classrooms and improve student success develop curricular materials to assist this process conduct research expanding what is known about learning and teaching and provide professional development and collegiality from elementary teachers to college professors As a pedagogy it has been shown to be effective in a variety of content areas and at different educational levels This is an introduction to the process and the community Every POGIL classroom is different and is a reflection of the uniqueness of the particular context the institution department physical space student body and instructor but follows a common structure in which students work cooperatively in self managed small groups of three or four The group work is focused on activities that are carefully designed and scaffolded to enable students to develop important concepts or to deepen and refine their understanding of those ideas or concepts for themselves based entirely on data provided in class not on prior reading of the textbook or other introduction to the topic The learning environment is structured to support the development of process skills such as teamwork effective communication information processing problem solving and critical thinking The instructor's role is to facilitate the development of student concepts and process skills not to simply deliver content to the students The first part of this book introduces the theoretical and philosophical foundations of POGIL pedagogy and summarizes the literature demonstrating its efficacy The second part of the book focusses on implementing POGIL covering the formation and effective management of student teams offering guidance on the selection and writing of POGIL activities as well as on facilitation teaching large classes and assessment The book concludes with examples of implementation in STEM and non STEM disciplines as well as guidance on how to get started Appendices provide additional resources and information about The POGIL Project
