Media and Information Literacy in Higher Education Dianne Oberg, Siri Ingvaldsen, 2016-11-18 Media and Information Literacy in Higher Education Educating the Educators is written for librarians and educators working in universities and university colleges providing them with the information they need to teach media and information literacy to students at levels ranging from bachelor to doctoral studies In order to do so they need to be familiar with students strengths and weaknesses regarding MIL This book investigates what university and college students need to know about searching for and evaluating information and how teaching and learning can be planned and carried out to improve MIL skills The discussions focus on the use of process based inquiry approaches for developing media and information literacy competence involving students in active learning and open ended investigations and emphasizing their personal learning process It embraces face to face teaching and newer forms of online education Examines the intersecting roles of academic librarians teacher educators and library educators in preparing library students and teacher education students to use the library Brings new perspectives from both teacher educator and library educator and draws connections between higher and secondary education K12 Draws on a number of competences skills knowledge experiences and reflections from a variety of perspectives and focuses on libraries as efficient tools in all kinds of education and learning activities Written by an international group of authors with firsthand experience of teaching MIL Looks at how libraries can contribute to the promotion of civic literacy within higher education institutions and in society more widely      Observational Listening Markus van Alphen,2016-07-27 Conversational skills People already talk with one another dont they It should be redundant to write a book about conversational skillsor so you would think Yet there are differences between people one seems to get a little more done than the next Often this boils down to subtle differences in the way they communicate Ordinarily people tend to ask questions with a certain goal or purpose in mind They then listen to the answer as if the answer is based on the question as they meant it to be Yet the other is answering based on what he understood the question to mean Observational listening trains the listener to let go of his own goals and interpretations and concentrate on the reactions evoked In other words the listener tries to find out what the question meant to the other In this way he gets it and is able to bring depth into the conversation in a natural way without resorting to tricks This book also goes further than your everyday conversation it is directed at conversational skills in psychosocial settings The philosophy behind the book is simple yet profound if you realise that communication is an emotion as well as the expression of emotion the way to becoming an excellent communicator is to understand emotion and how it translates into behaviour This is what makes this book unique it provides the missing link between emotion and communication      The Empathy Factor Marie R.
