1. Identify the problem. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the symptoms and the context in which they are occurring.

2. Define the problem. Once the problem is identified, it needs to be defined in terms of its scope and impact. This helps to clarify what is being addressed.

3. Generate hypotheses. Next, several hypotheses are generated to explain the problem. These are based on the information gathered in the first two steps.

4. Test the hypotheses. Each hypothesis is then tested through observation or experimentation. This step is crucial for determining which hypothesis is most likely correct.

5. Accept the solution. Once a hypothesis is confirmed, the solution is accepted. This involves implementing the solution and monitoring its effectiveness.

6. Evaluate the solution. Finally, the solution is evaluated to see if it has successfully resolved the problem. This step ensures that the problem has been fully addressed.
