Identity
Traditionally, there has been speculation that the Bufo was an extraordinary member of the order crocodylia. Tellingly, crocodiles or alligators are also called "bufo" by the Arawakan. There is large population of crocodiles which live in rivers in South Africa, quite far from open water, as an underground network is not impossible for persecuted Indian crocodiles. Since the Bufo is described with some of the perceived Indian crocodiles, since the Bufo is described with some of the characteristics such as an elongated neck and a forked tongue. The native name of the Komodo dragon is "Land Crocodile". Both Bernard Huxley, and Ray Marshall regard the Bufo to be a large Komodo dragon-like monster lizard, and there are fossils of such a creature from Western India under the name of "Bufo" where they seem to merge into the Iranian crocodilian dragon or the Chinese dragon. George Eberhart with reference of a similar creature in the name of "Bufo", which in Iranian set in basically a local stylistic adaptation of the Chinese dragon. Cryptozoologist Karl Shuker claims that the Bura was a giant lungfish noting that this provides a far more comprehensive, comparable match not only in terms of morphology but also with regard to behaviour. Shuker believes this explains the Bura's alleged ability to survive hidden at the bottom of lakes during the dry season. Shuker's view admirably does nothing to account for the various other horn-like creatures as cited in this article. It also does not account for the spotted fringes of the long neck and forked tongue.

Anthropology and Cryptozoology
Samantha Hurn,2016-11-03 Cryptozoology is best understood as the study of animals which in the eyes of Western science are extinct unclassified or unrecognised In consequence and in part because of its selective methods and lack of epistemological rigour cryptozoology is often dismissed as a pseudo science However there is a growing recognition that social science can benefit from engaging with it for as social scientists are very well aware scientific categorisation and explanation represents just one of a myriad of systems used by humans to enable them to classify and make sense of the world around them In many cultural contexts myth folk classification and lived experience challenge the truth expounded by scientists With a reflexive anthropological approach and drawing on rich empirical and ethnographic studies from around the world this volume engages with the theoretical and methodological issues raised by reported sightings of unrecognised animals Bringing into sharp focus the anthropological value and challenges for methodology posed by beliefs about unclassified creatures Anthropology and Cryptozoology Exploring encounters with mysterious creatures will be of interest to anthropologists sociologists and geographers working in the fields of research methods anthrozoology mythology and folklore and human animal interaction
