Geographers Elizabeth Baigent, André Reyes Novaes, 2018-11-15 Geographers Biobibliographical Studies Volume 37 explores the concept of distinction in geography Through the lives of six geographers working in Brazil North America Europe and R union it investigates what distinction consists of how we identify and celebrate it and how it relates to quotidian practices in the discipline The volume highlights the continuing importance of biography and the International Geographical Union in recording and assessing distinction It also considers the relevance of personal networks for the circulation and translation of distinguished geographical knowledge and how this knowledge can underpin applied projects and critical appraisal of geographical scholarship both at a national and sub national level Gendered notions of distinction are also addressed particularly through June Sheppard who found limited recognition for her work as a result of gendered expectations within the discipline and society at large By reflecting on how we locate distinguished geographers and tell their histories Geographers Biobibliographical Studies Volume 37 makes an important contribution to fostering less canonical work in historical geography

Smart Development in Smart Communities Gilberto Antonelli, Giuseppe Cappiello, 2016-09-13 The concept of smart cities has become one of the most significant new lines of thinking to emerge in the social sciences in recent years both from the research and policy angles To date the focus in smart specialization has been on what regions as a whole can do to bring about innovation but it hasn't necessarily addressed the role cities play within the field. This book aims to address that gap by drawing together a team of leading contributors to illustrate this process with particular focus on cities. Smart Development in Smart Communities discusses the cross-fertilization between smart specialization and cities in fostering smart development and its interactions with the macro, micro, and meso economic framework from both a theoretical and applied perspective. Specific topics covered by the book include human capital formation and utilization, centralized and decentralized industrial policies, innovation policies, collective learning, and the role of public utilities in sustaining smart development processes. This book tackles some of the most important questions that must be faced when investigating how structural change and innovation processes are shaping local and global economic development. It will be of interest to academics and researchers in the area of Development Economics, Urban Studies, and Public Management. Devolution and the UK Economy David Bailey, Leslie Budd, 2016-02-24. The Scottish Referendum in September 2014 had significant and far-reaching consequences for the political settlement of the United Kingdom. The pressure for more fiscal devolution and other economic powers in the devolved nations has increased demands for greater economic decentralisation in the regions and sub-regions of England. This edited collection constructs an analytical narrative that draws on the evidence of the Scottish experience and expert testimony from the Smith Commission and other policy advisors. Drawing on ideas from fiscal federalism and agglomeration economics, the contributors examine the reorganisation and restructuring of economic territories within the UK. What is apparent in the UK experience of asymmetrical devolution is that many of the complex issues surrounding decentralised economic governance are not going to be addressed through simple expedients. The pertinent question is what should be the appropriate institutional logics and formal policy bailiwicks underpinning a new constitutional settlement. In other words, what new governmental powers and accompanying forms of governance are needed to achieve a more economically and spatially balanced economy. The Evaluation and Implementation of a Smart Specialization Strategy Mirjana Kranjac, Jakob Salom, 2022-01-05. This book serves to define and promote the concept of smart specialization. As such, it is not only theoretical but also presents a practical process performed in a specific country and the results thereof. It offers recommendations for activities of the European Commission regarding smart specialization processes in the future and will appeal to policy makers, professionals who develop strategic documents, advisors bridging organizations, and all who are involved in research and innovation, from professors to entrepreneurs. South African national bibliography, 1999. Classified list with author and title index. Territorio, istituzioni, crescita. Scienze regionali e sviluppo del paese Fratesi, Pellegrini, 2013.
