Melcher, 2016-12-15 Early twentieth century Arizona was a life threatening place for new and expectant mothers

Towns were small and very far apart and the weather and harsh landscape often delayed midwives. It was not uncommon for a woman to give birth without medical care and with the aid of only family members. By the 1920s Arizona was at the top of the list for the highest number of infant deaths. Mary Melcher's Pregnancy, Motherhood and Choice in Twentieth Century Arizona provides a deep and diverse history of the dramatic changes in childbirth, birth control, infant mortality and abortion over the course of the last century. Using oral histories, memoirs, newspaper accounts, government documents, letters, photos and biographical collections, this fine-grained study of women's reproductive health places the voices of real women at the forefront of the narrative, providing a personal view into some of the most intense experiences of their lives. Tackling difficult issues such as disparities in reproductive health care based on race and class, abortion and birth control, this book seeks to change the way the world looks at women's health. An essential read for both historians and public health officials, this book reveals that many of the choices and challenges that women once faced remain even today.

Honor James Bowman, 2007 From the earliest records of human civilization until the dawn of the twentieth century and in widely separated cultures throughout the world, the story of honor was inseparable from the story of mankind. Today, an acquaintance with the concept of honor is indispensable to understanding the culture of the Islamic world and its sense of grievance against the West, where honor has been disregarded or actively despised for three quarters of a century. James Bowman draws from a wealth of sources across many centuries to illuminate honor's curious history in our own culture and he discovers that Western honor was always different from that found elsewhere. Its idiosyncratic qualities derived partly from the classical tradition but mainly from the Judeo-Christian heritage whose emphases on individual morality and more recently on sincerity and authenticity in private and personal life have acted as continual challenges to the traditional notion of honor as it is still maintained in other parts of the world. These challenges to honor and the accommodations with it that they ultimately produced are a fundamental theme in our own culture's distinctive history and the eventual collapse of the honor culture in the West is the background against which the War on Terror and the Clash of Civilizations ought to be seen.
