First Encounters Volume I Fe English Edition:

The Poetry of Translation Matthew Reynolds, 2011-09-29 Poetry is supposed to be untranslatable But many poems in English are also translations Pope's Iliad Pound's Cathay and Dryden's Aeneis are only the most obvious examples The Poetry of Translation explodes this paradox launching a new theoretical approach to translation and developing it through readings of English poem translations both major and neglected from Chaucer and Petrarch to Homer and Logue The word translation includes within itself a picture of something being carried across This image gives a misleading idea of goes on in any translation and poets have been quick to dislodge it with other metaphors Poetry translation can be a process of opening of pursuing desire or succumbing to passion of taking a view or zooming in of dying metamorphosing or bringing to life These are the dominant metaphors that have jostled the idea of carrying across in the history of poetry translation into English and they form the spine of Reynolds's discussion Where do these metaphors originate Wide ranging literary historical trends play their part but a more important factor is what goes on in the poem that is being translated Dryden thinks of himself as opening Virgil's Aeneid because he thinks Virgil's Aeneid opens fate into world history Pound tries to bring Propertius to life because death and rebirth are central to Propertius's poems In this way translation can continue the creativity of its originals The Poetry of Translation puts the translation of poetry back at the heart of English literature allowing the many great poem translations to be read anew
