

THE SIMPLE LIGHTING LED BUYING GUIDE

WHAT IS AN LED?

An LED (light emitting diode) is a modern, efficient lighting. The latest LEDs rival halogen bulbs for light quality but with loads of added benefits.

LED bulbs are eco friendly, containing efficient, have an average lifespan of 25,000 hours and can save up to 90% in your energy costs!

ALL ABOUT THE BASE?

Generally, most people are surprised to find that there are quite so many different bulb fittings around. But this is a good thing, as it means you can choose the most important fit for your needs.

The ones below are the most common household bulbs, take a look at your current bulbs and compare to the pic to see what you need.

Now you know your fitting, either click on the relevant link below, or read on to find out more about choosing the perfect bulb...

AREN'T THE SHAPES ALL THE SAME?

Actually, no, they aren't. Although a lot about bulb shape does come down to the current fitting, there are a few different shapes that provide different light.

Each of the different shapes provides a slightly different spread and angle of light. Spotlights will cast a narrow, direct beam of light, whereas a golf bulb is also worth considering how the fitting will look even when off, some lamps have a decorative shape, so a candle bulb might look better in a chandelier or multiple fittings. Smaller bulbs such as a golf might work best here.

WHAT'S A LUMEN?

The unfamiliar lumen can be off putting when deciding to switch to LED, but as legislation changes and more bulbs become the only option, it's becoming more important to understand what it means.

Back when we all had incandescent, the most important factor was the wattage. Higher wattage meant brighter light. The problem with this is that a 60W bulb would use 60W of power, even when you weren't switching. For example, if you had a 60W bulb in a room, it would use 60W of power all day long, even when you weren't switching. LED bulbs are much more efficient, so a 10W LED bulb can provide the same brightness as a 60W incandescent bulb.

So, that's not too hard, but let's not forget the watts completely! Watts are still important when it comes to energy efficiency, but the lumen is what you need to know. The lumen is a measure of the light output of a bulb, and it's the most important factor when choosing a bulb. The higher the lumen, the brighter the bulb. So, if you want a bright bulb, look for one with a high lumen rating.

Hint: The lower the watts the cheaper it is to run.

DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT COLOUR TEMPERATURE?

Yes, you do! Colour temperature is another thing that is, for the most part, new to most people. It's a measure of the light's colour, and it's measured in Kelvin (K). The higher the Kelvin, the more blue the light. The lower the Kelvin, the more yellow the light. So, if you want a warm, cozy light, look for a bulb with a low Kelvin rating. If you want a bright, cool light, look for a bulb with a high Kelvin rating.

A lot of people prefer the soft, artificial glow of incandescents. It's what we've used to, and what we associate with feeling like home. A colour temperature of 2700K is a good choice for this. If you have a very modern and minimalist home, you may prefer a higher Kelvin rating, such as 4000K or 5000K. This will give you a brighter, cooler light that is more similar to natural daylight.

"Daylight" refers to a light that is similar to a sunny day outside, most people still find this a bit bright for in the home. Especially if you're a fan of cozy evenings in.

WHICH ROOM?

Now you've cracked the lumen, it's time to figure out what that means for you and how to choose the right LED bulb for your room. For example, we recommend soft, warm white bulbs in living areas such as the kitchen, as the clear, bright light works better for task lighting and beauty

if you're using multiple bulbs in one fitting, then we recommend a lumen rating of around 4000lm per bulb if you have just the one bulb in a hanging fixture, so for something a bit brighter, around the 3000lm mark should do it.
