Georg Baselitz Back Then In Between And Today:

Georg Baselitz Haus der Kunst München, 2014 Circulation and Control Marie-Stéphanie Delamaire, Will Slauter, 2021-10-08 The nineteenth century witnessed a series of revolutions in the production and circulation of images From lithographs and engraved reproductions of paintings to daguerreotypes stereoscopic views and mass produced sculptures works of visual art became available in a wider range of media than ever before But the circulation and reproduction of artworks also raised new questions about the legal rights of painters sculptors engravers photographers architects collectors publishers and subjects of representation such as sitters in paintings or photographs Copyright and patent laws tussled with informal cultural norms and business strategies as individuals and groups attempted to exert some degree of control over these visual creations With contributions by art historians legal scholars historians of publishing and specialists of painting photography sculpture and graphic arts this rich collection of essays explores the relationship between intellectual property laws and the cultural economic and technological factors that transformed the pictorial landscape during the nineteenth century This book will be valuable reading for historians of art and visual culture legal scholars who work on the history of copyright and patent law and literary scholars and historians who work in the field of book history It will also resonate with anyone interested in current debates about the circulation and control of images in our digital age

Art, Agency and the Continued Assault on Authorship Simon Blond, 2022-10-31 This book presents a counter history to the relentless critique of the humanist subject and authorial agency that has taken place over the past fifty years It is both an interrogation of that critique and the tracing of an alternative narrative from Romanticism to the twenty first century which celebrates the agency of the artist as a powerful contribution to the wellbeing of the community It does so through arguments based on philosophical aesthetics and cultural theory interspersed with case histories of particular artists It also engages with a second issue that cannot be separated from the first This is the question of what the role and purpose of art is in society This has become particularly important since the 1990s because of the social turn in art in which it is claimed that the only valid role for art was one that had explicit social consequences This book argues that a political role for art is valuable but not the only one that can be envisaged nor indeed is it the most obvious or most important Art has other social roles both as a means to engender empathy and community and to re enchant a world bereft of meaning and reduced to material values The book will appeal to practising artists as well as scholars working in art history philosophy aesthetics and curatorial studies Post-Exceptionalism Arne De Boever, 2025-01-31 Postmodernism has come and gone but the belief that artists and works of art are exceptional is alive and well Post Exceptionalism speculates that this is so because postmodernism when it declared the death of the author and celebrated the copy failed to name political theology as its fundamental target In a time when sovereignty is experiencing a dubious global revival the moment has come to reconsider the artist and the work of art after political theology in search for a new worldly and emancipatory politics of aesthetics

The Humanities between Global Integration and Cultural Diversity Hans G. Kippenberg, Birgit

Mersmann, 2016-03-21 Modernization and digital globalization have proven to mark major thresholds where paradigmatic shifts and realignments take place This volume aims to capture the reconfiguration of humanistic study between the forces of global integration and cultural diversification from a full range of disciplines within the humanities and social sciences The key issue is discussed in three major parts The first chapter examines transnational interpolations of the humanities as potential indicator for a globalizing humanistic research The second chapter deals with humanistic revisions of modernity with and against globality The third chapter discusses the ambiguous constitution of cultural diversity as a complement and counter movement to global integration ideologically moving between social cohesion and exclusion The final chapter outlines what the threshold crossing from modern to global humanities will mean for the future of humanistic research The multidisciplinary study of culture within the history of the humanities documents and reflects the mobility and migration of its concepts and methods moving and translating between disciplines research traditions historical periods academic institutions and the public sphere

Subject, Society and Culture Roy Boyne, 2008-03-25 This is a highly original indeed an extraordinary book standing out among the conventional philosophical treatments of subjectivity and reaching beyond the conventional area of investigation Boyne's feat is to find overlooked and unexplored angles which recast one of the perennial and ostensibly thoroughly familiar philosophical issues in a novel and fascinating light Zygmunt Bauman This book explores the relationships between visual culture social theory and the individual Visual culture has emerged as a central area of debate and research in contemporary sociology yet the field is still underdefined In particular the relationship between visual culture and the individual remains obscure Sociologists have insisted that all aspects of the individual are open to sociological explanation The result is that the individual sometimes seems to have been theorized away from sociological understanding Using a wide range of resources from Bourdieu's action theory and the contribution of actor network theory through to the artistic explorations of Francis Bacon and Barnett Newman this book shows how the concept of the individual is being reconstructed

Contemporary Art and the Display of Ancient Egypt argues that the contemporary and the ancient do not necessarily inform each other. Instead, they are mediated by and mediations of the museum that produces them. Rather than explore how contemporary artists have been inspired by Egypt, this book examines how they have shaped the language and discourse around study of the Egyptian past by looking at the wider field of public display in which both have been historically situated. Building on this critical history of practice, the book draws from experiments in bringing contemporary artistic sculptures, conceptual pieces, multimedia, films, sounds, smells, and performances into galleries at the British Museum in London, the Egyptian Museum in Turin, and the State Museum of Egyptian Art in Munich. These are used to explore what contemporary art does in these spaces, the motivations for inviting artists in, and the legacies of those interventions. It ends with a reflection on how academics and curators can be involved in the creative process and how artists contribute to academic research.

Praise for Contemporary Art and the Display of Ancient Egypt This is an important and innovative study on the recent history of incorporating art installations in galleries of Egyptian antiquities. Offering a thoughtful critical analysis of the ways in which contemporary art and ancient artefacts are juxtaposed in museum settings, the book calls for a more nuanced and politically engaged practice of collaboration between artists and Egyptologists. Stephanie Moser, University of Southampton

Archaeologist Alice Stevenson provides a thoughtful consideration of the goals and intent behind contemporary art interventions in exhibitions of ancient Egyptian art. She challenges the curators, scholars, and museum professionals who design these exhibitions to move beyond the simplistic ancient art/contemporary art juxtaposition and instead use contemporary art interventions to create spaces for both artistic and academic insight and inspiration. I look forward to such dialogue. Kara Cooney, UCLA
