Wiring Principles of Cerebral Cortex Julian Budd, Zoltán F. Kisvárdy,2015-11-17 Cerebral cortex is probably the most complex biological network Here many millions of individual neurons the functional units of cortex are interconnected through a massive yet highly organized pattern of axonal and dendritic wiring This wiring enables both near and distant cells to coordinate their responses and generate a rich variety of cognitions and behaviours When the wiring is damaged through disease or trauma it may reorganize but this may lead to characteristic pathological behaviours While there have been significant advances in mapping cortical connectivity the organizing principles and function of this connectivity are not well understood On the one hand there appears to be general design constraints governing cortical wiring as first recognised by R mon y Cajal s in his laws of conduction material and volume conservation

Yet on the other hand particular patterns of cortical wiring exist to serve specific functions There is a wide gap in understanding how the response and connectivity properties of a single neuron contribute to emergent network functions such as in detecting perceptually relevant features Unravelling this intimate causal relationship represents one of the major challenges in neuroscience This Research Topic will examine progress in understanding cortical wiring principles This Research Topic aims to draw together recent advances in methods and understanding as well as recent challenges to existing ideas about how cerebral cortex is wired This is particularly timely because new automated techniques may soon yield huge datasets in need of explanation Recent studies have for instance empirically evaluated R mon y Cajal s conservation laws for cerebral cortex while others have shown some unexpected connectivity features that may refine the traditional view of how corticocortical connections are organised with regard to functional representations of auditory somatosensory and visual cortices Understanding these data will help improve the fidelity of neural models of cerebral cortical function and take into account the diversity of connections at both micro and mesoscopic scales not seen at such a depth before A Guide to IMF Stress Testing Ms.Li L Ong,2014-12-23 The IMF has had extensive involvement in the stress testing of financial systems in its member countries This book presents the methods and models that have been developed by IMF staff over the years and that can be applied to the gamut of financial systems An added resource for readers is the companion CD Rom which makes available the toolkit with some of the models presented in the book also located at elibrary.imf.org/page/stress-test-toolkit

The Political Economy of Regulation in Turkey Tamer Çetin,Fuat Oğuz,2011-01-12 The Political Economy of Regulation in Turkey brings together leading international scholars and experts on Turkey and regulatory reform to provide essential information on the recent Turkish experience and its relation to competition policy After the 1980 liberalization reform Turkey tried to introduce competition in many industries but network industries have remained as monopolies At the end of the 1990s regulatory reform was initiated and independent regulatory agencies have been established by the government Comprehensive discussions of these network industries in particular airlines electricity natural gas telecommunications and environment regulations are offered The contributors inquire how economic theory and historical analyses can enlighten the character of market processes and the role for government action in these industries and the contributions shed light on the very recent changes in the regulatory structure and important legal cases that shape the future of regulated industries This book discusses these issues in an international perspective and relates the Turkish experience to other similar countries such as in Eastern Europe and Central America This book serves as a useful guide to those who want to understand major changes in Turkey and regulatory reforms in other emerging markets making it of interest to researchers and PhD students concerned with regulatory economics the Turkish economy and economic policy in emerging markets FCC Record United States. Turkey's Water Policy Aysegul Kibaroglu, Waltina Scheumann, Annika Kramer, 2011-08-19 Water is a strategic natural resource of vital importance to all nations As such it has been the cause of several international disputes For Turkey especially water is crucial to social and economic development Turkey s current national water regime that emphasises water resources development and management for productive uses however faces growing environmental concerns and international criticism regarding transboundary water cooperation Furthermore EU accession requires Turkey to adopt an extensive and ambitious body of EU water law To understand Turkey s position to international water law the national policies and socio economic circumstances that impact water resources management need to be considered This book fills the existing knowledge gap through a broad perspective and analysis of the current state of Turkey s water policy and its management of both national and transboundary waters It is a unique undertaking that brings together Turkish and international authors practitioners and academics covering all aspects of water management

Evaluation of Agricultural Policy Reforms in Turkey OECD, 2011-09-21 Agricultural policies in Turkey have evolved significantly over time and the Agricultural Law of 2006 aims to align Turkey s policies with those of the European Union Several emerging issues and challenges for Turkish agricultural policies are discussed in this publication Informing Energy and Climate Policies Using Energy Systems Models George Giannakidis, Maryse Labriet, Brian Ó Gallachóir, GianCarlo Tosato, 2015-04-06 This book highlights how energy system models are used to underpin and support energy and climate mitigation policy decisions at national multi country and global levels It brings together for the first time in one volume a range of methodological approaches and case studies of good modeling practice on a national and international scale from the IEA ETSAP energy technology initiative It provides insights for the reader into the rich and varied applications of energy system models and the underlying methodologies and policy questions they can address The book demonstrates how these models are used to answer complex policy questions including those relating to energy security climate change mitigation and the optimal allocation of energy resources It will appeal to energy engineers and technology specialists looking for a rationale for innovation in the field of energy technologies and insights into their evolving costs and benefits Energy economists will gain an understanding of the key future role of energy technologies and policy makers will learn how energy system modeling teams can provide unique perspectives on national energy and environment challenges The book is carefully structured into three parts which focus on i policy decisions that have been underpinned by energy system models ii specific aspects of supply and end use sector modeling including technology learning and behavior and iii how additional insights can be gained from linking energy system models with other models The chapters elucidate key methodological features backed up with concrete applications The book demonstrates the high degree of flexibility of the modeling tools used to represent extremely different energy systems from national to global levels

Irrigation Governance Challenges in the Mediterranean Region: Learning from Experiences and Promoting Sustainable Performance Roula Khadra, Juan Antonio Sagardoy, 2019-03-27 This book aims at deriving governance and sustainability lessons from analysing the implementation and management of some major irrigation programs in the Mediterranean Region Eight countries are targeted namely Spain Italy Albania Turkey Jordan Egypt Tunisia and Morocco The main focus programs include the modernisation and rehabilitation of the existing irrigation systems the transfer of irrigation management responsibilities to water users organizations public private partnerships arrangements the monitoring evaluation of participatory irrigation management and transfer processes and the governance of groundwater resources for irrigation The adopted approach relies on learning from the value of each single experience and on advancing solutions that emerge from their comparative analysis and that may be of guidance to those engaged in these programs The country experiences indicated that often times significant shortcomings in the implementation of these programs have occurred and hopefully this book could be a source of inspiration for the corrective actions needed
