Audiovisual Guide to the Catalog of the Food and Nutrition

Information and Educational Materials Center ,1977      Shifting Food Facts Alissa Overend,2020-11-15 This book offers a much needed reframing of food discourse by presenting alternative ways of thinking about the changing politics of food eating and nutrition It examines critical epistemological questions of how food knowledge comes to be shaped and why we see pendulum swings when it comes to the question of what to eat As food facts peak and peril in the face of conflicting dietary advice and nutritional evidence this book situates shifting food truths through a critical analysis of how healthy eating is framed and contested particularly amid fluctuating truth claims of a post truth culture It explores what a post truth epistemological framework can offer critical food and health studies considers the type of questions this may enable and looks at what can be gained by relinquishing rigid empirical pursuits of singular dietary truths In focusing too intently on the separation between food fact and food fiction the book argues that politically dangerous and epistemically narrow ideas of one way to eat healthy or right are perpetuated Drawing on a range of archival materials related to food and health and interviews with registered dietitians this book offers various examples of shifting food truths from macro historical genealogies to contemporary case studies of dairy wheat and meat Providing a rich and innovative analysis this book offers news ways to think about and act upon our increasingly complex food landscapes It does so by loosening our empirical Western reliance on singular food facts in favour of an articulation of contextual food truths that situate the problems of health as problems of living not as individualistic problems of eating It will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners working in food studies food politics sociology environmental geography health nutrition and cultural studies

Food and nutrition security in transforming Ghana: A descriptive analysis of national trends and regional patterns Van Asselt, Joanna,Ecker, Olivier,2017-06-16 In recent decades Ghana has experienced high economic growth and transformation which contributed to the nation achieving the Millennium Development Goal targets on reducing extreme poverty and hunger Against this background and in view of achieving the food and nutrition security targets of the Sustainable Development Goals Ghana started a process of reviewing its food security and nutrition strategies and policies including the overarching Zero Hunger Strategy This discussion paper aims to contribute to this process by providing an update on the state of Ghana s food and nutrition security In addition to providing an overview of long term historical trends at the national level this analysis provides an overview of regional patterns of food and nutrition insecurity and recent changes across Ghana s 10 administrative regions Finally the analysis identifies regional hot spots of food and nutrition insecurity This paper confirms that Ghana has achieved substantial improvements in food and nutrition security overall especially over the past decade Nationwide progress has been made in improving households economic access to food by reducing poverty and extreme poverty and in reducing chronic and acute child undernutrition However progress in reducing micronutrient malnutrition particularly anemia and especially among young children has been more modest Across Ghana large rural urban gaps and regional differences mainly between the north and the south remain for most dimensions of food and nutrition security In addition Ghana is increasingly facing new nutrition related public health problems that result from overnutrition and diets too rich in calories Overweight and obesity among adults are rising rapidly in both urban and rural areas leading to an increase in the risk of noncommunicable diseases The rising double burden of malnutrition that is the coexistence of overnutrition and undernutrition including micronutrient deficiencies constitutes a challenge to public health and social protection policy These new nutritional realities may make some existing food and nutrition security policies obsolete or even detrimental to nutrition security

Global food policy report 2024: Food systems for healthy diets and nutrition
International Food Policy Research Institute, 2024-05-29

Food systems and diets underpin many critical challenges to public health and environmental sustainability including malnutrition noncommunicable diseases and climate change but sustainable healthy diets have the unique potential to reshape the future for both human and planetary well being The 2024 Global Food Policy Report draws on recent evidence to examine the role of food systems in driving nutrition outcomes and opportunities for transforming food systems to ensure healthy diets for all Chapters by IFPRI researchers and partners evaluate proven and innovative ways to sustainably improve diet quality and reduce malnutrition including ways to make healthy diets more affordable accessible and desirable how to improve food environments the role of both agricultural crops and animal source foods and governance for better diets and nutrition all with a major focus on the most vulnerable populations in low and middle income countries Regional sections explore the diverse challenges countries face and promising policy responses for transforming food systems for sustainable healthy diets
