Introducing Human Geographies:

Introducing Human Geographies Kelly Dombroski, Mark Goodwin, Junxi Qian, Andrew Williams, Paul Cloke, 2024-07-09

Introducing Human Geographies is a travel guide into the academic subject of human geography and the things that it studies. The coverage of the new edition has been thoroughly refreshed to reflect and engage with the contemporary nature and direction of human geography. This updated and much extended fourth edition includes a diverse range of authors and topics from across the globe with a completely revised set of contributions reflecting contemporary concerns in human geography. Presented in four parts with a streamlined structure it includes over 70 contributions written by expert international researchers addressing the central ideas through which human geographers understand and shape their subject. It maps out the big foundational ideas that have shaped the discipline past and present, explores key research themes being pursued in human geography's various sub-disciplines and identifies emerging collaborations between human geography and other disciplines in the areas of technology, justice and environment. This comprehensive, stimulating and cutting-edge introduction to the field is richly illustrated throughout with full colour figures, maps and photos. The book is designed especially for students new to university degree courses in human geography across the world and is an essential reference for undergraduate students on courses related to society, place, culture and space.

Introducing Human Geographies, Second Edition Paul Cloke, Philip Crang, Mark Goodwin, 2013-01-11

Introducing Human Geographies is a comprehensive, stimulating and innovative introduction to human geography. This second edition has been thoroughly revised and updated to build upon the success of the acclaimed first edition. Now in full colour and with sixteen new chapters, discussion points and glossary definitions in the margin, it is even more accessible. Part one discusses the principal ideas through which human geographers understand and shape their subject. Part two examines each of the main sub-fields: cultural geography, development geography, economic geography, environmental geography, historical geography, political geography, rural geography, social geography, urban geography. Part three demonstrates how different thematic interests are combined in cutting-edge human geographical debates. Introducing Human Geographies continues to be the essential textbook for first-year undergraduate geography students taking introductory courses in human geography.

Introducing Human Geographies Paul Cloke, Philip Crang, Mark Goodwin, 2013-12-05

Introducing Human Geographies is the leading guide to human geography for undergraduate students, explaining new thinking on essential topics and discussing exciting developments in the field. This new edition has been thoroughly revised and updated, and coverage is extended with new sections devoted to biogeographies, cartographies, mobilities, non-representational geographies, population geographies, public geographies and securities. Presented in three parts with 60 contributions written by expert international researchers, this text addresses the central ideas through which human geographers understand and shape their subject. Part I: Foundations engages students with key ideas that define human geography's subject matter and approaches through critical analyses of dualisms such as local/global society/space and human/nonhuman. Part II Themes explores human geography's main sub-disciplines with sections devoted to biogeographies, cartographies, cultural geographies, development geographies, economic geographies, environmental geographies, historical geographies, political geographies, population geographies, social geographies, urban and rural geographies. Finally Part III Horizons assesses the latest research in innovative areas from mobilities and securities to non-representational geographies. This comprehensive stimulating and cutting edge introduction to the field is richly illustrated throughout with full colour figures, maps and photos. These are available to download on the companion website located at www.routledge.com/9781444135350.

Urban Tourism in the Developing World Christian Myles Rogerson, Gustav Visser, Over the past decade the field of urban tourism has consolidated with the appearance of several books that concentrate upon the Western European and North American experience Recently the scope and range of urban research has widened considerably including the welcome appearance of studies that examine the tourism phenomenon in cities outside the Euro American heartland Despite this growing international body of debate and scholarship on tourism and cities particularly in the developed North literature that relates to the developing world as a whole and to Africa in particular remains sparse The task of Urban Tourism in the Developing World The South African Experience is to augment the current international scholarship concerning urban tourism in the developing world More especially the contributors draw attention to a range of case studies from South Africa that provide some starting points to address the uneven scholarly coverage of urban tourism the African context has received to date In addition the research material presented here seeks to contribute toward raising the South African and indeed the African profile within growing international scholarship concerning issues of urban tourism and development This collection aims to expand an emerging South African and African tourism research voice concerning the tourism and development nexus as well as to stem critiques that this body of research appears to have developed in a theoretical vacuum divorced from broader international tourism research discourses This collection of essays not only further develops an independent South African tourism perspective but also presents research that is closely tied to international urban tourism research debates In addition this analysis of urban tourism in the South African context enriches the rather Western oriented theories of urban tourism discourse through its emphasis on how urban tourism is evolving in urban Africa Christian M Rogerson is professor of human geography in the School of Geography Archaeology and Environmental Studies University of the Witwatersrand Johannesburg South Africa Gustav Visser is senior lecturer in human geography in the Department of Geography University of the Free State Bloemfontein South Africa

Legal Geography Matteo Nicolini, 2022-12-05 This book invites readers to critically rethink the interrelations between geography and the law Traditionally legal geographical interrelations have been dominated by scholars with backgrounds in geopolitics economics or geography More recently a new interdisciplinary approach has been developed with the aim of offering a fresh perspective on how law and geography intersect There has been a steady growth in cross disciplinary research in this field how legal geographical taxonomies interrelate has attracted attention from scholars and academics with a diverse range of backgrounds namely law anthropology and human physical geography thus giving rise to several publications Against this backdrop the book adopts a legal comparative perspective and assesses normative spatialities which are the outcomes of processes of legal spatial production In addition the comparative analysis offers readers new insights on some traditional geographic features which are essential to legal studies territorial identity regional demarcation territorial alternation and place name policy Examples are drawn from several jurisdictions both from the Global North and the Global South and partly employ a diachronic perspective As its subversive character is ideally suited to revealing policies and agendas comparative law is used to identify the ethnocentric and colonial biases underpinning the use and misuse of legal geographic devices by policymakers and academics In sum the book presents legal geography as an interdisciplinary undertaking in which geographers and legal scholars can jointly examine common concepts in the historical cultural political and social contexts in which law is practised The book transcends the boundaries between disciplines to engage in a fruitful dialogue on how the law can help to address the current socio geographic and ecological crises

Cultural Turns/Geographical Turns Simon Naylor, James Ryan, Ian Cook, David Crouch, 2018-10-08 Introduces undergraduates to the key debates regarding space and culture and the key theoretical arguments which guide cultural geographical work This book addresses the impact significance and characteristics of the cultural turn in contemporary geography It focuses on the development of the cultural geography subdiscipline and on what has made it a peculiar and unique realm of study It demonstrates the importance of culture in the development of debates in other subdisciplines within geography and beyond In line with these previous themes the significance of space in the production of cultural values and expressions is also developed Along with its timely examination of the health of the cultural geographical subdiscipline this book is to be valued for its analysis of the impact of cultural theory on studies elsewhere in geography and of ideas of space and spatiality elsewhere in the social sciences

Where Land Meets Sea Anna Ryan, 2016-02-11 Drawing together philosophical empirical and academic thinking this book focuses on generating awareness of the relationship forged between self and surroundings It details research undertaken at two coastal sites the South Wall in Dublin city and the Maharees peninsula in Co Kerry Ireland Sixty two participants were engaged in photography and drawing to enable this exploration of spatial experience The participants photographs and drawings present how spatial sensibilities can be revealed by becoming more attentive to the immediacy of bodily knowledge our more than cognitive experience Their communications resonate with the philosophers and theorists considered including Merleau Ponty Edward Casey Gilles Deleuze Dalibor Vesely and contemporary cultural geographers From exploring the experienced spatiality of the meeting of land and sea this book begins to suggest an alternative politics of the coast
