Department of Economics course International Political Economy language English abstract Growth economics is the branch of economics answering questions related to what are determinants of economic growth whether is it possible to reach a maintainable growth rate on the long run if it is preferable to let governments interfere in market performance in order to fasten rates of economic growth Harrod and Domar attempted to answer these questions through applying Keynes economics for economic analysis They found that savings and investments stable rates are the key for rapid long term growth especially in developing countries Therefore government intervention was needed to help stimulate savings and investments Years later Solow and Swan attempted to answer same questions through their neoclassical growth model In this model it was assumed that a maintained rising saving rates leads to transition from slow growth into fast growth path This meant a focus on technological progress However part of the growth was not explained by growth in production factors which are capital and labor Solow stated that this unexplained factor was the residual or total factor productivity Therefore government policies were assumed to be effective on aggregate output not on growth rates

Understanding situations in which decision-makers interact* Elena Ristova,2020-07-09 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject Economics International Economic Relations grade 1 7 Pforzheim University language English abstract This paper is about negotiations and the game theory Negotiation has been since ever omnipresent It can confront us in our daily life for example the question who is doing the dishes today or in much more complex issues such as in economics or politics Simply defined negotiation is the process of attempting to get what one wants through agreement with one or more other parties There are different tools with which negotiations can be modeled One of them is game theory GAME THEORY aims to help us understand situations in which decision makers interact A game in the everyday sense a competitive activity in which players contend with each other according to a set of rules According to the definition game theory is an appropriate tool to apply for negotiations and get the best outcome of it It can make it easier for us to analyze our own needs the least acceptable agreement and desires the most desired outcome but also the ones of our opponent Consequently game theory allows us to estimate the strategy the other party is going to use Moreover game theory reaches back far in history There had been recognized some game theoretic situations even in the bible But the major development started in the 1920s First game theory was a mathematic discipline The two mathematicians John von Neumann and Emile Borel worked on game theory and subsequently the book Theory of games and economic behavior was published by von Neumann and Oskar Morgenstern in 1944 Later in the 1950s game theory was not only considered to be a mathematician discipline but it has been also applied in economic theory and political science and psychologists began studying how human subjects behave in experimental games
