Transformation Audit 2011 Jan Hofmeyr, 2012-03-07 The 2011 Transformation Audit presents a collection of articles by South African thought leaders which asks how the country can set goals and achieve them in a hostile global climate that threatens developmental gains that have been painstakingly achieved For nearly two decades South Africans have conducted exhaustive analyses of the country's challenges embarked on bold scenario exercises and more recently produced forward looking strategies aimed at addressing these challenges The most eminent of these in recent years were the Department of Economic Development's New Growth Path and the National Planning Commission's Draft National Development Plan We know now what the problems are and by and large what needs to change to address them Courage is required now to forge consensus to take decisions on strategies and to start implementing them As in previous years this publication with its slightly different format and appearance seeks to provide analysis and provoke debate on how this might be achieved

Language in Epistemic Access Caroline Kerfoot, Anne-Marie Simon-Vandenberg, 2018-07-26 This book focuses on how to address persistent linguistically structured inequalities in education primarily in relation to South African schools but also in conversation with Australian work and with resonances for other multilingual contexts around the world The book as a whole lays bare the tension between the commitment to multilingualism enshrined in the South African Constitution and language in education policy and the realities of the dominance of English and the virtual absence of indigenous African languages in current educational practices It suggests that dynamic plurilingual pedagogies can be allied with the explicit scaffolding of genre based pedagogies to help redress asymmetries in epistemic access and to re imagine policies pedagogies and practices more in tune with the realities of multilingual classrooms The contributions to this book offer complementary insights on routes to improving access to school knowledge especially for learners whose home language or language variety is different to that of teaching and learning at school All subscribe to similar ideologies which include the view that multilingualism should be seen as a resource rather than a problem in education Commentaries on these chapters highlight evidence based high impact educational responses and suggest that translanguaging and genre may well offer opportunities for students to expand their linguistic repertoires and to bridge epistemological differences between community and school

The Technopolitics of Communication in Modern India Pragya Dhital, 2024-12-12 This book offers a groundbreaking account of the role of media technologies in Indian nationalism and democracy From the Brexit referendum in 2016 to the phenomenon of Trumpism there has been much speculation about the role played by new media in an apparent return of illiberal politics and primordial identities Dhital argues these developments could best be understood by not taking identity for granted as a static and exclusive form of affiliation She also emphasises how the technical and material are interwoven into human thought and action rather than acting upon them externally She accordingly focuses on the technopolitical means by which groups have been ventriloquised during critical periods in Indian political history across various media from newspapers and magazines to radio broadcasts speeches and online platforms Chapters cover prison writing produced during the emergency of 1975 77 regulation of public speech during the 2014 general election and the Citizenship Amendment Act protests of 2019 20 Through these case studies Dhital works towards an alternative more reflexive basis for popular representation one that does not sacralise the people and assume power in their name Research Anthology on Bilingual and Multilingual Education Management Association, Information Resources, 2021-10-29. Given the boost in global immigration and migration, as well as the emphasis on creating inclusive classrooms, research is turning to the challenges that teachers face with the increasing need for bilingual and multilingual education. The benefits of bilingual education are widespread, allowing students to develop important cognitive skills such as critical thinking and problem solving, as well as opening further career opportunities later in life. However, very few resources are available for the successful practice and implementation of this education into the curriculum, with an even greater lack of appropriate cultural representation in the classroom. Thus, it is essential for educators to remain knowledgeable on the emerging strategies and procedures available for making bilingual and multilingual education successful. The Research Anthology on Bilingual and Multilingual Education is a comprehensive reference source on bilingual and multilingual education that offers the latest insights on education strategy and considerations on the language learners themselves. This research anthology features a diverse collection of authors offering valuable global perspectives on multilingual education. Covering topics such as gamification, learning processes, and teaching models, this anthology serves as an essential resource for professors, teachers, pre-service teachers, faculty of K-12 and higher education, government officials, policymakers, researchers, and academicians with an interest in key strategy and understanding of bilingual and multilingual education.

Pedagogic Practices, Student Engagement and Equity in Chinese as a Foreign Language Education Wen Xu, 2021-12-27. This book explores and analyses Chinese as a Foreign Language (CFL) pedagogic practices and learning experiences within a cohort of low socio-economic status students within an Australian primary classroom. It demonstrates that, in spite of policy and educational discourses underpinning Asian literacies, Chinese teaching and learning is a fragile undertaking in Australian schooling. The politicisation of CFL education, especially in the post-COVID-19 era, has exacerbated public stereotypes concerning racism and multiculturalism in Australia today. Drawing upon Bernstein's theorisation and engagement framework, Wen Xu sketches out CFL education as a democratic space where power and control relations can be deliberately operated to reinforce engaging learning experiences. She suggests that pedagogic interventions in the name of social justice have the potential to make consequential differences in disadvantaged students life trajectories and CFL education can be envisioned as an avenue towards socioeconomic mobility instead of being criticised as a platform opposing to liberal ideas In turn she provides insights into teaching younger age CFL learners in the global context in terms of the structuring of pedagogy and curriculum Wen Xu s research will be of interest to students and scholars in sociology of education student engagement pedagogy and curriculum CFL education and languages education as well as pre service teachers and practitioners who teach Chinese as a Foreign Language
