Wagner, 2019-06-11 How the principles of biological innovation can help us overcome creative challenges in art business and science In Life Finds a Way biologist Andreas Wagner reveals the deep symmetry between innovation in biological evolution and human cultural creativity Rarely is either a linear climb to perfection instead progress is typically marked by a sequence of peaks plateaus and pitfalls For instance in Picasso's forty some iterations of Guernica we see the same combination of small steps incessant reshuffling and large almost reckless leaps that characterize the way evolution transformed a dinosaur's grasping claw into a condor's soaring wing By understanding these principles we can also better realize our own creative potential to find new solutions to adversity Ultimately Life Finds a Way offers a new framework for the nature of creativity enabling us to better adapt grow and change in art business or science that is in life Alternative Models of Addiction

Hanna Pickard, Serge H. Ahmed, Bennett Foddy, 2015-12-07 For much of the 20th century theories of addictive behaviour and motivation were polarized between two models The first model viewed addiction as a moral failure for which addicts are rightly held responsible and judged accordingly The second model in contrast viewed addiction as a specific brain disease caused by neurobiological adaptations occurring in response to chronic drug or alcohol use and over which addicts have no choice or control As our capacity to observe neurobiological phenomena improved the second model became scientific orthodoxy increasingly dominating addiction research and informing public understandings of addiction More recently however a dissenting view has emerged within addiction research based partly on new scientific research and partly on progress in philosophical and psychological understandings of relevant mental phenomena This view does not revert to treating addiction as a moral failure but nonetheless holds that addictive behaviour is fundamentally motivated by choice and subject to at least a degree of voluntary control On this alternative model of addiction addictive behaviour is an instrumental means to ends that are desired by the individual although much controversy exists with respect to the rationality or irrationality of these ends the degree and nature of the voluntary control of addictive behaviour and motivation the explanation of the difference between addictive and non addictive behaviour and motivation and lastly the extent to which addictive behaviour and motivation is correctly characterised as pathological or diseased This research topic includes papers in the traditions of neuroscience psychology philosophy law and social science that explore alternative understandings of addiction Integrating an Awareness of Selfhood and Society into Virtual Learning Stricker, Andrew, Calongne, Cynthia, Truman, Barbara, Arenas, Fil, 2017-01-05 Recent technological advances have opened new platforms for learning and teaching By utilizing virtual spaces more educational opportunities are created for students who cannot attend a physical classroom environment Integrating an Awareness of Selfhood and Society into Virtual Learning is a pivotal reference source that discusses the latest scholarly perspectives on creating meaningful learning and sensory engagement in virtual learning spaces and examines how selfhood is expressed in these environments Highlighting emerging topics in education such as gender considerations leadership development and situated learning this book is ideally designed for professionals practitioners graduate students and academics interested in the role of virtual reality in learning contexts
