

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express the deepest appreciation to my committee chair, Professor Godfrey-Sykes Irvine, who has the attitude and the substance of a genius: he continually and convincingly conveyed a spirit of adventure in regard to research and scholarship, and an excitement in regard to teaching. Without his guidance and persistent help this dissertation would not have been possible.

I would like to thank my committee members, Professor M. Chaphaga Tridactyla and Professor Marmaduke Orange, whose work demonstrated to me that concern for global affairs supported by an “engagement” in comparative literature and modern technology should always transcend academia and provide a quest for our times.

In addition, a thank you to Professor V. Milicic of Western University, who introduced me to Linguistics, and whose enthusiasm for the “underlying structures” had lasting effect. I thank the University of Chicago Press for permission to include copyrighted photographs as part of my thesis/dissertation. I also thank Springer Verlag for permission to include Chapter Five of my dissertation, which was originally published in Linguistics Journal. Financial support was provided by the University of California, Irvine, NSF Grant DEB-8227052 and a MacArthur predoctoral fellowship in International Peace and Security granted by the Social Science Research Council.

How to Write a PhD in Biological Sciences John Measey, 2021-11-29 You don't have to be a genius to write a PhD Of course it will always involve a lot of hard work and dedication but the process of writing is a whole lot easier if you understand the basic ground rules This book is a guide through the dos and don'ts of writing a PhD It will be your companion from the point when you decide to do a PhD providing practical guidance to getting started all the way through the nuts and bolts of the writing and editing process It will also help you to get and stay in the right mental framework and establish good habits from the beginning putting you in a commanding position later on Examples are tailored to the biological sciences offering a unique reference for PhD students in these disciplines Embarking on a PhD doesn't need to be daunting even if it's your first experience working within academia Each short section focuses on writing considered by many to be the most difficult aspect of a PhD and delves into a practical detail of one aspect from the title to the supplementary material Whether you're a student just starting your studies an early career researcher or a supervisor struggling to cope the book provides the insider information you need to get ahead Writing for Earth Scientists Stephen K. Donovan, 2017-05-08

The time has come You are an Earth scientist You've spent weeks months years working on this project now is the time to pull it together for publication You might be writing an undergraduate or graduate thesis a research paper for a leading journal a note for the newsletter of the local amateur scientific society a book review or an abstract for a specialist geological conference How do you make the transition from promising unpublished researcher to established academic author Of course the phrase academic publishing covers a multitude of sins monographs research papers book reviews conference abstracts or whatever each requires a different approach You have to decide what it is you are going to write and where to publish it There are co authors supervisors of your degree peer reviewers and editors to deal with on the way But the only way to write like an academic is to write like an academic where do you start You could do much worse than start here There are many books on how to write and be published aimed at research students and other aspiring academics Many of these are readable comprehensive and provide good advice This book is composed of numerous short chapters on this subject all directly relevant to one or more aspects of academic publishing and aimed particularly at the Earth scientists in the broadest sense Geologists will be encouraged to use the book as much as a reference as a reader dipping in to the chapters that contain relevant tips hints and comments to enable them to improve the paper that they are currently writing The book is intended to be informative readable and above all of practical application for all readers In summary the volume will be a readable compilation investigating many facets of academic publishing relevant to the Earth sciences It will be of particular interest to postgraduate students postdocs and new academics Synthesizing Synchronous Systems by Static

Scheduling in Space-Time Björn Lisper, 1989-05-10 The subject of this book is the synthesis of synchronous hardware The purpose is to provide a firm mathematical foundation for the so called space time mapping methods for hardware synthesis that have been proposed during the last few years Thus the treatment is fairly mathematical In a space time mapping method an algorithm is described as a set of atomic events with possible data dependencies between them The task is to find a mapping assigning a space time coordinate to each event so that causality is not violated and the solution is good Previous work in the area if it provided any formalism at all has relied mainly on uniform recurrence equations extensions thereof or on purely graph theoretic formulations In this project algebra is used instead and the close connection with single assignment languages is stressed Thus it is possible to generalize previous work and to give simple characterizations of the type of algorithms that can be implemented with space time mappings The results presented can be applied to hardware construction and compiler techniques for parallel computers How to write a Coursework? , Fostering Wellbeing through Collective Writing Practices Narelle Lemon, Aaron Bolzle, Malaika Santa Cruz, Rennie Saunders, 2025-11-18 This book explores the transformative power of collaborative writing sessions in fostering wellbeing among academics In this collection the second of two volumes the editors bring together diverse voices from around the globe offering insights into how Shut Up Write SUAW sessions are revolutionising academic practice and nurturing healthier more connected scholarly communities From remote scholars finding connection to working class academics addressing unfinished business this book illuminates the multifaceted benefits of SUAW It delves into how these sessions build resilience cultivate passion boost productivity and nurture academic identity The contributors share personal narratives practical strategies and critical reflections on how SUAW initiatives are reshaping academic culture This is essential reading for academics doctoral students and university administrators seeking innovative approaches to enhance wellbeing in higher education It offers a compelling case for integrating SUAW into academic life demonstrating its potential to combat isolation foster supportive networks and promote a more balanced approach to scholarly work The Complete Guide to Medical Writing Mark C. Stuart,2007

The Complete Guide to Medical Writing is intended to consider all aspects of medical scientific writing in one concise introductory text It explains how to get published how to write for a particular audience or in a particular media what the publishing processes are and what the financial rewards might be ￼￼￼￼￼￼￼￼￼,2020-08-13 Graduate Research Supervision in the Developing World Erik Blair,Danielle Watson,Shikha Raturi,2020-01-03 Recognising that graduate supervisory practice is not an abstracted academic pursuit but an activity that is subjectively bounded by content and context impacted by the experiences and beliefs of supervisee and supervisor this text explores the unique dynamics of graduate supervision in the Global South as perceived and experienced by students and academics within those same contexts Bringing together contributions which reflect a rich diversity of perspectives on supervisory practices at regional universities in the Caribbean and South Pacific Graduate Research Supervision in the Developing World explores how supervisors navigate unscripted supervisory terrain contextualise supervisory best practices establish roles and relationships and work to understand supervisees needs By highlighting the effect on graduate supervision of complex sociocultural interplay and the relationship between learning environments and student success contributors look to locate best practices through analyses of stories of success and failure As the contributors demonstrate there is a need to restructure the standardised operation of graduate supervision across diverse faculties This text will be of great interest to graduate supervisors and their supervisees as well as scholars in the fields of continuing professional development and higher education in international and comparative education and Sociology of Education
