

BRIEF SYNOPSIS

As the short story genre uses a wide variety of plot types, several strategies must be employed to gain an overall picture of how different stories are connected. Although each of Lahiri's stories has its own self-contained plot and characters, they are linked in ways that bind the collection together as a complete entity.

To begin with, all Lahiri's stories revolve around people who are either Indian in India, Indian in the United States or Americans of Indian descent. Further, the stories can be separated into distinct groupings and associations, based on their relation to Indian culture. The first and most obvious group of stories are the two that are set in India itself, and concern only Indians in India: 'The Treatment of Bibi Haldar' and 'A Place of Their Own'. Here, Lahiri explores the elements of Indian society that have not been muted or changed by association with the outside world. Both of the main characters – Bibi Haldar and Suroi Ma – have characteristics and experiences that are peculiar to Indian society, many of which could not exist elsewhere. These women are both subject to the repressive mores of an Indian society that appears to render them powerless.

It is useful to link these two stories with the only other story set in India, which portrays an Indian man who comes into contact with an American family of Indian descent. The title story, 'An Interpreter of Maladies', not only illustrates the main theme uniting the stories, the 'maladies' that afflict Lahiri's various characters, but also bridges the geographic divide between the subcontinent of India and continental North America. Mr Kapasi does not understand the tourists in his taxi, who look Indian despite their foreign mannerisms and behaviour. This immediate confusion points to one of Lahiri's major themes – that of disjunction between cultures. Through this story, Lahiri is able to design the connection between her narratives.

Another grouping concerns first-generation Indians who are inevitably alienated from American culture because they have left the land in which they were born and raised. Mrs Sen, while still quite young, is made to seem old
