GamesMarkt ,2009 Voices Found Chris Tonelli,2019-11-14 Voices Found Free Jazz and Singing contributes to a wave of voice studies scholarship with the first book length study of free jazz voice It pieces together a history of free jazz voice that spans from sound poetry and scat in the 1950s to the more recent wave of free jazz choirs The author traces the developments and offers a theory derived from interviews with many of the most important singers in the history of free jazz voice of how listeners have experienced and evaluated the often unconventional vocal sounds these vocalists employed This theory explains that even audiences willing to enjoy harsh sounds from saxophones or guitars often resist when voices make sounds that audiences understand as not human Experimental poetry and scat were combined and transformed in free jazz spaces in the 1960s and 1970s by vocalists like Yoko Ono in solo work and her work with Ornette Coleman and John Stevens Jeanne Lee in her solo work and her work with Archie Shepp and Gunter Hampel Leon Thomas in his solo work as well as his work with Pharoah Sanders and Carlos Santana and Phil Minton and Maggie Nicols who devoted much of their energy to creating unaccompanied free jazz vocal music By studying free jazz voice we can learn important lessons about what we expect from the voice and what happens when those expectations are violated This book doesn t only trace histories of free jazz voice it makes an attempt to understand why this story hasn t been told before with an impressive breadth of scope in terms of the artists covered drawing on research from the US Canada Wales Scotland France The Netherlands and Japan

Earth's surface oceans play a unique role for our planet and for our life but large areas remain unexplored and are difficult to reach. Since the 1980s Earth orbiting satellites have helped to observe what is happening at the ocean surface. Sensors like CZCS, AVHRR, SeaWiFS and MODIS provided the first ocean colour data from space. Starting in 2002 ESA's Medium Resolution Imaging Spectrometer MERIS on board the environmental satellite Envisat provided detailed information on phytoplankton biomass and concentrations of other matter in the global oceans. These satellite observations laid the groundwork for studying the marine environment and how it responds to climate change and the research community has since delivered information on the variability of marine ecosystems. Part of this work is reflected in this stunning collection of peer-reviewed publications presented at the workshop Colour and Light in the Ocean from Earth Observation CLEO held at ESA's ESRI site in Frascati Italy on 6-8 September 2016. The event attracted more than 160 participants from all over the world including remote sensing experts, marine ecosystem modelers, in situ observers and users of Earth observation data. Scientifically the meeting covered applications in climate studies over primary productivity and ocean dynamics to pools of carbon and phytoplankton diversity at global and regional scales. It also demonstrated the potential of Earth observation and its contribution to modern oceanography. Looking to the future, new satellites developed by ESA under the coordination of the European Commission will further our scientific and operational observations of the seas. With Sentinel 3A in orbit and its twin Sentinel 3B following in 2017, there is a new category of data available for operational oceanographic applications and climate studies for years to come. These data are free and easy to access by anyone interested. Looking at the role of oceans in our daily lives, I am sure that this collection of scientific excellence will be valued by scientists of today and will inspire the next generation to carry these ideas into the future.
