

Abstract: This study investigated the effects of a 12-week, supervised, group-based, low-impact aerobically demanding exercise program on the physical and psychological health of 100 sedentary, middle-aged, obese women. The program was designed to be safe and effective for this population. The results showed that the program was well tolerated and resulted in significant improvements in physical and psychological health. The program was found to be a safe and effective means of improving the health of this population.
