Cancer Epidemiology in China: What We Have Learnt So Far? Jianguang Ji, Tianhui Chen, Xiaochen Shu, Hao Liu, 2020-04-13 After several decades of development the socialist market economy of China is now the world's second largest economy by nominal GDP China is also the largest economy by purchasing power parity according to the International Monetary Fund In tandem with the development of the Chinese economy China's cancer burden is rising rapidly due to an ageing population and the adoption of unhealthy lifestyle behaviours According to the data from the National Central Cancer Registry NCCR of China the incidence and mortality of cancer have been increasing rapidly in China In recent years cancer has been the leading cause of death among city residents and the second cause of death among rural residents which has become a stark public health issue in China According to the NCCR an estimated 4.29 million new incident cases 12 thousand per day and 2.81 million death cases 7.5 thousand per day would occur in 2015 in China This corresponds to the age standardized incidence rate ASIR of 201.1 per 100 000 and age standardized mortality rate ASMR of 126.9 per 100 000 respectively Due to the geographical and ethnical disparities in living habits and healthcare level the cancer spectrum differs between different regions and ethnical groups in China According to the estimation from IARC the incidence of nasopharyngeal carcinoma and liver cancer is the world's highest in specific regions of China The incidence of some cancer types in Chinese urban areas such as colorectal prostate kidney and bladder cancers is similar to that in developed countries or regions where the incidence of cancer is highly associated with obesity and westernised lifestyles Nevertheless the incidence of some common cancer types in rural areas including oesophageal stomach liver and cervical cancers shares similarity with less developed countries or regions in the world where cancers are associated with chronic infectious agents due to poverty In addition the mortality rate is higher in rural areas which suggests a poorer cancer prognosis due to late diagnosis and/or unsatisfying clinical treatment The distinct cancer patterns of different regions and/or ethnic groups indicate a need for precise cancer prevention and control plans tailored for different geographical regions and/or ethnic groups The overarching goal of the proposed Frontiers in Oncology Research Topic is to present current perspectives on cancer epidemiology in Chinese characteristics and provide current knowledge of cancer burden as well as cancer mortality to academic investigators clinicians and stakeholders from the translational clinical and public health communities

Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods Mitchell H. Gail, Jacques Benichou, 2000-11-02 Featuring articles from the prestigious Encyclopedia of Biostatistics many of which have been revised and updated to include recent developments the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods also includes newly commissioned articles reflecting the latest thinking in Cancer Registries Birth Defect Registries Meta Analysis of Epidemiologic Studies Epidemiology Overview Sample Size Sex Ratio at Birth Software Design and Analysis Featuring contributions from leading experts in academia government and industry the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods has been designed to complement existing texts on the subject by providing further extensive up to date coverage of specialised topics and by introducing the reader to the research literature Offering a wealth of information in a single resource the Encyclopedia of Epidemiologic Methods Offers an excellent introduction to a vast array of specialised topics Includes in depth coverage of the statistical underpinnings of contemporary epidemiologic methods Provides concise definitions and introductions to numerous concepts found in the current literature Uses extensive cross references helping to facilitate further research and enabling the reader to locate definitions and related concepts In addition to featuring extensive articles in the areas of descriptive and analytic epidemiology the Encyclopedia also provides the reader with articles on case control design and offers substantial coverage of allied statistical methods List of Journals Indexed in Index Medicus National Library of Medicine (U.S.),2004 Issues for 1977 1979 include also Special List journals being indexed in cooperation with other institutions Citations from these journals appear in other MEDLARS bibliographies and in MEDLING but not in Index medicus Epidemiology and Biology of Multiple Myeloma G. Iris Orams,Michael Potter,2012-12-06 On March 27 1990 the National Cancer Institute sponsored a workshop on the epidemiology of multiple myeloma held at the National Institutes of Health This book comprises articles prepared by participants in this work shop Discussed in these papers are the descriptive and analytic epidemiology differences in risk factors between blacks and whites monoclonal gammopathies and their progression and hypotheses regarding the etiology and pathogenesis of multiple myeloma Several epidemiologic research areas received particular attention during this workshop and are reviewed in detail in this volume There have been striking increases in the incidence of multiple myeloma over the past thirty years especially among older individuals and blacks which may not be entirely explained by changes in diagnostic capabilities Occupational and environmental exposures have been associated with an increased risk of multiple myeloma including farming exposures occupational exposure to petroleum and rubber processing exposure to ionizing radiation and associations with persistent virus infections The most striking epidemiological finding is reflected in the differences in incidence rates of multiple myeloma which are twice as high in blacks as compared with whites Further since 1950 the mortality rates for multiple myeloma have quadrupled in blacks while doubling for whites Among hematopoietic malignancies multiple myeloma is the only one with increased incidence and mortality rates among blacks 1 vo major possibilities for explaining ethnic racial differences in susceptibility to multiple myeloma are genetic and environmental factors Phytochemicals Targeting Tumor Microenvironment in Gastrointestinal Cancers Ganji Purnachandra Nagaraju,2020-10-07 Gastrointestinal GI malignancies account for a large portion of cancers worldwide Although incidence of esophageal gastric and colorectal cancers has decreased in recent years pancreatic and liver cancer have increased The mainstay of GI cancer therapy is chemoradiation and surgery Despite significant medical advancements diagnosis and therapy for GI cancers remain challenging due to tumor cell resistance to chemoradiotherapy The tumor s increased cell signalling due to excessive transcription factor activation and increased stellate cell activity leads to collagen deposition formation of a dense stroma around the tumor which prevents drugs from reaching the malignant cells This leads to tumor chemoresistance To circumvent these difficulties drug therapy targeting the tumor s specific microenvironment and the additive anticancer effect of phytochemicals can allow for more effective treatment This volume will be the first on the market on the topic of phytochemicals and their effect on the tumor microenvironment TME TME is an emerging area of research and the book will be a welcome introductory addition to the field Index Medicus ,2001 Vols for 1963 include as pt 2 of the Jan issue Medical subject headings Hepatocellular Carcinoma Joseph W.Y. Lau,2012-03-02 This book covers the clinical aspects of hepatocellular carcinoma This book is a compendium of papers written by experts from different parts of the world to present the most up to date knowledge on the clinical aspects of hepatocellular carcinoma This book is divided into three sections I Diagnosis Differential Diagnosis II Surgical Treatment III Non surgical Treatment There are 19 chapters covering topics from novel diagnostic methods to hepatic lesions mimicking hepatocellular carcinoma from laparoscopic liver resection to major hepatectomy without allogeneic blood transfusion from molecular targeted therapy to transarterial radioembolization and from local ablative therapy to regional therapy This volume is an important contribution to the clinical management of patients with hepatocellular carcinoma The intended readers of this book are clinicians who are interested in hepatocellular carcinoma including hepatologists liver surgeons interventional and diagnostic radiologists pathologists and epidemiologists General surgeons general physicians trainees hospital administrators and instruments and drug manufacturers will also find this book useful as a reference British Medical Journal ,1929 Biological Variation in Health and Illness Theresa Overfield,1995-04-28 Specifically for the health professional this book contains an extensive compilation of research findings on biologic variation by race age and gender relating to health and illness Completely rewritten revised and updated the Second Edition includes an increased discussion of biologic variation and expanded coverage of each chapter topic This book provides a theoretical framework for understanding the mechanisms that influence biologic variation It presents a well documented discussion of research data and indicates areas where knowledge is lacking A theoretical explanation is followed by examination of surface and anatomical variations developmental variation biochemical and enzymatic variations disease susceptibility differences and influence of the external variation Consideration of sexual variation reveals more differences between the sexes than among races Misconceptions about racial uniformity and diversity are exposed throughout the book Tables of specific biologic variations allow easy reference and access to the literature The Sidney Kimmel Comprehensive Cancer Center at Johns Hopkins Manual of Cancer Nursing Brenda Kurtz Shelton,Constance R.
