Guided Readings Cold War:

Confucianism, Colonialism, and the Cold War Grace Ai-Ling Chou, 2011-10-14 The story of Hong Kong's New Asia College from its 1949 establishment through its 1963 incorporation into The Chinese University of Hong Kong reveals the efforts of a group of self-exiled intellectuals in establishing a Confucian-oriented higher education on the Chinese periphery. Their program of cultural education encountered both support and opposition in the communist containment agenda of American non-governmental organizations and in the educational policies of the British colonial government. By examining the cooperation and struggle between these three parties, this study sheds light on postwar Hong Kong, a divided China, British imperial ambitions in Asia, and the intersecting global dynamics of modernization, cultural identity, and the Cold War.

The Bloomsbury Handbook to Cold War Literary Cultures Greg Barnhisel, 2022-06-30 Adopting a unique historical approach to its subject and with a particular focus on the institutions involved in the creation, dissemination, and reception of literature, this handbook surveys the way in which the Cold War shaped literature and literary production and how literature affected the course of the Cold War. To do so, in addition to more traditional sources, it uses institutions like MFA programs, university literature departments, book review sections of newspapers, publishing houses, non-governmental cultural agencies, libraries, and literary magazines as a way to understand works of the period differently. Broad in both their geographical range and the range of writers they cover, the book's essays examine works of mainstream American literary fiction from writers such as Roth, Updike, and Faulkner, as well as moving beyond the U.S. and the U.K. to detail how writers and readers from countries including but not limited to Taiwan, Japan, Uganda, South Africa, India, Cuba, the USSR, and the Czech Republic engaged with and contributed to Anglo-American literary texts and institutions.

Defence Intelligence and the Cold War Huw Dylan, 2014-10-30 During the Second World War, British intelligence provided politicians and soldiers with invaluable

Goulding,2024-10-01 Cold War Genres explores post independence Hindi literature framing it within the sociopolitical backdrop of Nehruvian India during the early Cold War The book underscores the pivotal role of Hindi s claims to be a national language following independence which fostered a unique moment of literary innovation Central to its narrative is the work of Gajanan Madhav Muktibodh a pivotal figure in modern South Asian literature Using Muktibodh s poetry criticism and fiction as a primary example the book shows how literary form shapes a response to the internal contradictions of 1950s India one that must be read in light of both the antinomies of Hindi literature and North India as well as the aesthetic debates and emerging ideas of global space during this time Cold War Genres therefore functions as a lens to evaluate questions of genre and form shared by a range of literary cultures in the mid twentieth century decolonizing world This book features extensive translations from Muktibodh s poetry and prose including full translations of two poems Brahmar k as The Brahman Demon and A dhere me In the Dark The Global Cold War on Campus Kyara Anne Klausmann,2023-11-06

How and why did students at Kabul University engage in political activism or refrained from it between 1964 and 1992 Based on oral history interviews with former students this book reveals how they as many others around the world at the same time were galvanized by and disappointed with promises of progress dominating local and international politics During the 1960s the international influences on campus encouraged students engagement with competing political ideologies Collective student protest against the monarchy turned into hostilities between opposing political groups within the student body claiming to lead Afghanistan towards independence and prosperity After the coup d tat by the People s Democratic Party of Afghanistan PDPA in 1978 none of the ideologies which had previously incited students provided hope for a better future anymore Many students who had fought for the PDPA earlier were repelled by the government s violence and those who stood up against the regime were persecuted and fled the country Overall the dynamics of political activism at Kabul University reflect the deep intertwinement of the Global Cold War and local struggles for inclusion and independence

The Cold War Defense of the United States John E Bronson, 2019-05-21 During the Cold War as part of its defense strategy against the Soviet Union the U S was forced to establish means of massive long range attack in response to Soviet advancements in weaponry These defenses detected and tracked manned bomber aircraft hostile submarines and missiles launched from the other side of the world This book shows how these defenses evolved from fledgling stop gap measures into a complex fabric of interconnected combinations of high tech equipment over 40 years Maps illustrate the extent of the geographic coverage required for these warning and response systems and charts display the time frames and vast numbers of both people and equipment that made up these forces

Reading Humanitarian Intervention Anne Orford, 2003-06-26 During the 1990s humanitarian intervention seemed to promise a world in which democracy self determination and human rights would be privileged over national interests or imperial ambitions Orford provides critical readings of the narratives that accompanied such interventions and shaped legal justifications for the use of force by the international community Through a close reading of legal texts and institutional practice she argues that a far more circumscribed exploitative and conservative interpretation of the ends of intervention was adopted during this period The book draws on a wide range of sources including critical legal theory feminist and postcolonial theory psychoanalytic theory and critical geography to develop ways of reading directed at thinking through the cultural and economic effects of militarized humanitarianism The book concludes by asking what if anything has been lost in the move from the era of humanitarian intervention to an international relations dominated by wars on terror

(Mis)Reading Different Cultures Yukari Takimoto Amos, Daniel Miles Amos, 2018-06-29 Teachers selection of the literature they use in instruction frequently depends on how they interpret in other words whether or not they accurately take in the authors perspectives This point presents a particular challenge in the selection of international literature International literature reflects a country s and a region s unique cultural values and practices and is usually not written for people outside the country of origin Therefore it is possible that readers in other countries may not understand be aware of those values and misinterpret the stories Since Asian and the Western countries including the U S hold maximum sociocultural differences and the perceived cultural distance has remained significantly wide reading and interpreting literature from Asia can present tremendous challenges to Americans The book addresses the challenges teachers face when interpreting and teaching with international children s literature from Asia The book engages readers with comprehensive coverage on theories concepts pitfalls and applications when endeavoring to use international children s literature from Asia in classrooms The book should be used to teach how interpretations worldviews vary by cultures and how power influences such interpretations worldviews Strategies and frameworks will be provided relating to how teachers can be more culturally conscious of their own biases and develop culturally authentic interpretations
