

Lesson 3, *continuedTHE BEGINNINGS OF AGRICULTURE
What was the Neolithic Revolution?

For centuries, humans stayed alive by hunting and gathering. Humans lived in small groups of 25 to 70 people. They often returned to a certain area in the same season each year. They knew it would be rich in food at that time.

Over the years, some humans realized that they could leave plant seeds in an area one year and find plants growing there the next year. This was the start of a new part of human life: farming.

Scientists think that the climate became warmer all around the world at about the same time. The change in weather, combined with humans' new knowledge about planting seeds, created the Neolithic Revolution.

Instead of relying on gathering food, people began to produce food. One early farming method was slash-and-burn farming. That meant cutting trees and burning them to clear a field. The ashes were used to fertilize the soil.

Along with growing food, people also began to raise animals such as horses, dogs, goats, and pigs. Domestication is the taming of animals.

Archaeologists have studied a site in the northeastern part of modern Iraq. It is called Jarmo. The people who lived in this region began farming and raising animals about 9,000 years ago.

2. How did life change during the Neolithic Revolution?

VILLAGES GROW AND PROSPER
How did the growth of farming villages change life?

People began to farm in many spots all over the world. The study of one village in modern-day Turkey shows what early farming communities were like.

The village is now called Catal Huyuk. It used the good land near a river. Some workers grew wheat, barley, and peas. Others raised sheep and cattle. Because these workers produced enough food for all the people, others could begin developing other kinds of skills. Some made pots out of clay. Others worked as weavers. Some artists decorated the village. Archaeologists have found wall paintings that show animals and hunting scenes. They have found evidence that the people had a religion, too.

Early farming villages had problems also. If the farm crop failed or the lack of rain caused a drought, people would have no food and starve. Floods and fires caused damage and death. With more people living near each other than before, diseases also spread easily. Still some of these early villages grew into great cities.

3. What problems did early farming villages face?
