Reconciling Responsibility with Reality Johannes Block, 2023-08-26 This book explores the issue of leadership criminality from a new angle by comparing two highly relevant modes of responsibility By contrasting individual criminal responsibility for ordering international crimes with indirect perpetration through an organisation it shows the doctrinal weaknesses of the latter and outlines the much overlooked advantages of the former The volume analyses the development of both forms of responsibility looking at their origins and their reception in academia and practical use in jurisprudence The history of indirect perpetration through an organisation Organisationsherrschaft is portrayed from its German academic origin through German jurisprudence to the reception of the doctrine at the International Criminal Court By comparing the doctrine s stages of evolution the book sheds light on the different aspects of the various models of indirect perpetration through an organisation and carves out general and fundamental criticism of it The characteristics of ordering liability are explored in depth through an analysis of jurisprudence of the Nuremberg subsequent trials the ad hoc tribunals and the International Criminal Court This historic and doctrinal comparison reveals a well defined and to date much neglected mode of responsibility with enormous potential for the adjudication of leadership figures in the ambit of international criminal law and only one conclusion can follow from this analysis it calls for practitioners and academics to leave the well trodden paths of national criminal law doctrine and embrace truly international modes of liability such as the ordering of a crime This volume in the ICJ series provides practitioners researchers and students with a detailed account of forms of leadership liability and an innovative approach to the topic s most discussed issue Dr Johannes Block is a criminal lawyer specializing in international criminal law responsibility of leadership figures questions of perpetration and participation in crime as well as the national socialist crimes He studied in Münster Germany and Bogotá Colombia and obtained his Doctor from the University of Cologne where he also worked and taught as a research assistant for several years His legal clerkship led him to organized crime investigations criminal defence the European Commission and the German Federal Ministry of Justice

Glial Plasticity in Depression João F. Oliveira, Catarina A. Gomes, Sandra H.

Vaz,Nuno Sousa,Luisa Pinto,2016-10-24 Major depression is a highly prevalent disorder that poses a significant social burden in society nowadays The pathophysiology of this disease is still poorly understood but growing evidence suggests that impaired neuron and glial plasticity may be a key underlying mechanism for the precipitation of the disorder One of the most surprising findings in this field was the involvement of glial cells in the pathophysiology of major depression and in the action of antidepressants namely in mechanisms related with adult neurogenesis imbalances or dendritic arborization impairments In particular several works refer to alterations in the morphology and numbers of astrocytes microglia and oligodendrocytes in the context of depression in human patients or animal models of depression These observations were linked to functional evidences and suggested to underlie the pathophysiology of depression Among others these include impairments in the cross talk between glia and neurons changes in the level of neurotransmitter or immunoactive substances myelination status synapse formation maintenance or elimination In addition to the implication of glia in the pathophysiology of depression a number of studies is ascribing glia pathways to classically accepted antidepressant mechanisms Therefore it is noteworthy to elucidate the role of glia in the effect provided by antidepressant treatment in order to better understand secondary effects and elucidate alternative targets for treatment

Assessing Uganda's Progressive Refugee Policy in the Era of COVID-19 Marco d'Errico, Donato Romano, Paul Winters, 2024-12-02 Uganda is home to 1.5 million refugees from DRC, Burundi, South Sudan and other countries. The Uganda political framework is one of the most progressive and inclusive toward refugees. Only a fraction of the refugees is likely to go back to their home countries. This book assesses Uganda's progressive refugee policy with reference to how it functioned in the era of COVID-19 using a unique panel data collected between 2017 and 2021. The Uganda Refugee Policy 2006 and the Refugee Regulations 2010 grant refugees wide-ranging rights that include allocating land for agriculture purposes, freedom of movement and the right to seek employment. However, the magnitude and the speed of influx of refugees in recent years have posed critical challenges to the sustainability of these progressive policies. On top of this, unpredictable and unprecedented crises have emerged such as COVID-19 and the Ukraine war that have threatened food security and the resilience of livelihoods value chains and food systems. The chapters in this book assess Uganda's progressive refugee policy with reference to how it functioned in the era of COVID-19. They focus on the following three main areas: i) the economic relationship and coexistence between host and refugees communities; ii) the success and sustainability of the current model of assistance; and iii) the response to COVID-19 on communities' welfare and long-term prospects. Addressing these issues is possible due to a unique panel dataset of thirteen refugee settlements and neighbouring host communities specifically collected for these purposes. Investigating the economic consequences of the integration between host and refugees communities and offering new evidence with specific reference to Uganda, this book will be a key resource for scholars, researchers and practitioners of development studies, African studies, economics and sociology. It was originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Development Studies. The Oxford Handbook of Language Prosody Carlos Gussenhoven, Aoju Chen, 2021-01-07 This handbook presents detailed accounts of current research in all aspects of language prosody written by leading experts from different disciplines. The volume's comprehensive coverage and multidisciplinary approach will make it an invaluable resource for all researchers, students and practitioners interested in prosody. Recent Advances in Understanding the Basic Mechanisms of Atrial Fibrillation Using Novel Computational Approaches Jichao Zhao, Oleg Aslanidi, Pawel Kuklik, Geoffrey Lee, Gary Tse, Steven Alexander Niederer, Edward Joseph Vigmond, 2019-11-25 Women in Cardiovascular Genetics and Systems Medicine Laura Arbour, Anindita Das, Elisa Anamaria Liehn, 2024-04-16 At present, less than 30% of researchers worldwide are women. Long-standing biases and gender stereotypes are discouraging girls and women away from science-related fields and STEM research in particular. Science and gender equality are, however, essential to ensure sustainable development as highlighted by UNESCO. In order to change traditional mindsets, gender equality must be promoted, stereotypes defeated, and girls and women should be encouraged to pursue STEM careers. Guide du professionnel de la santé sur la compétence culturelle - E-Book Rani Hajela Srivastava, 2024-09-06 Développez les

Yanev, 2018-05-07 The proper construction of co perpetration responsibility in international criminal law has become one of the most enduring controversies in this field with the UN Tribunals endorsing the theory of joint criminal enterprise and the International Criminal Court adopting the alternative joint control over the crime theory to define this mode of liability This book seeks to reconcile the ICTY R s and ICC s jurisprudence by providing a definition of co perpetration that could be uniformly applied in the two justice models that these institutions represent the ad hoc and the treaty based model An evaluation framework is adopted pursuant to which the origins merits and deficiencies of the said competing theories are critically assessed and a refined legal framework of co perpetration responsibility is proposed

A Theory of Punishable Participation in Universal Crimes Terje Einarsen, Joseph Rikhof, 2018-12-07 This study is the second in the four part series entitled Rethinking the Essentials of International Criminal Law and Transitional Justice While the first volume The Concept of Universal Crimes in International Law explored the parameters and theories related to crimes under international law this book examines the notion of punishable participation in such crimes It presents a general theory of personal criminal liability and provides a comprehensive overview of all forms of criminal participation in international law The authors examine numerous primary materials in international and transnational criminal law both historical and current relating to both international and domestic jurisprudence They also review academic literature that attempts to explain and bring consistency to the jurisprudence as well as other sources such as reports of the International Law Commission This rich empirical tapestry is then used to test and further develop an overarching conceptual theory and matrix that provides a better understanding of the boundaries of personal criminal liability lex lata and lex ferenda and of the relationship between the various forms of punishable participation in universal crimes Like the first volume this book makes a valuable contribution to a more coherent and practical understanding of international criminal law

Model(ing) Justice Kerstin Bree Carlson, 2018-11-29 The International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia ICTY was the first and most celebrated of a wave of international criminal tribunals ICTs built in the 1990s and designed to advance liberalism through international criminal law Modeling Justice examines the practice and case law of the ICTY to make a novel theoretical analysis of the structural flaws inherent in ICTs as institutions that inhibit their contribution to social peace and prosperity Kerstin Bree Carlson proposes a seminal analysis of the structural challenges to ICTs as socially constitutive institutions setting the agenda for future considerations of how international organizations can perform and disseminate the goals articulated by political liberalism Opportunities and Challenges of Interprofessional Collaboration and Education Jill Thistlethwaite, Peter Musaeus, Martina Mueller-Schilling, Sophie Schlosser, 2024-04-01

Interprofessional collaboration is essential in meeting today's health challenges which demand high flexibility and innovation Many health organizations including the World Health Organization WHO demand that interprofessional collaboration should be taught and learned globally Even so interprofessional education tools have not yet been widely implemented in the curricula of medical professions incl physicians nurses pharmacists physiotherapists etc this training usually takes place separately Collaboration is necessary in health professions education as it can allow professionals to increase their skills and help them achieve more than they would at an individual level Collaboration also allows for more open minded approaches when facing new ways of thinking When knowledge is shared healthcare employees are more encouraged to share their own ideas and concerns These achievements of interprofessionalism within health profession education not only benefit the student and employee but also optimize patient care and increase patient safety Productivity can also be increased and therefore reduce costs overall
