

ANSWERS AND EXPLANATIONS

Each time a person enters the room, the computer generates a number and then randomly selects a name from the names placed in bowls for each group. The name that is called reads the problem, and that person then solves the problem. A new problem is then presented and the person that has read that problem randomly selects the person to read the next problem.

After the 10 problems are all completed, each is read again. The group that read the problem receives the average number of seconds it took to solve that problem. The person spending the least amount of time receives a reward, and the person spending the most time receives a punishment.

The teacher takes 1 minute per problem, spends 10 minutes each group and 10 minutes each time for the student. The time reading the problem, solving the problem and reading the problem, spending the time receiving punishment, receiving time receiving reward, reading the time, and time receiving punishment. These through the problem.
