Gauteng Life Science Paper One 2014:

Proceedings of the International Conference on Education Research Reza Hosseini, Towards applying a green infrastructure approach in the Gauteng City-Region Christina Culwick, Samkelisiwe Khanyile, Kerry Bobbins, Stuart Dunsmore, Anne Fitchett, Lerato Monama, Raishan Naidu, Gillian Sykes, Jennifer van den Bussche, Marco Vieira, 2019-12-11 In the context of heightened climate variability thinking about ways to redesign our urban areas with more sustainable infrastructure solutions is becoming more and more important Green infrastructure GI is emerging as an alternative approach to traditional grey infrastructure in urban planning and development Its emergence can be understood in terms of the growing demand for infrastructure and services increased concerns over natural resource constraints and climate change and the negative impacts associated with traditional approaches to designing and building cities It has been proposed that GI can provide the same services as traditional infrastructure at a similar capital cost while also providing a range of additional benefits However despite the increasing examples of successful urban GI applications traditional infrastructure continues to dominate due to the lack of systematic evidence to support GI implementation As a result there has been an increase in calls from policy and decision makers for a greater evidence base on the benefits of GI as well as for practical guidelines on its implementation Towards applying a green infrastructure approach in the Gauteng City Region is the GCRO s third report in its ongoing research into Green assets and infrastructure The first two reports in this project series were more theoretically grounded and policy oriented whereas this third report is more practical in nature The first report explored the basic principles around GI assessed the extent of ecological features in Gauteng and the way governments in the province think about planning and maintenance of green assets The second report responded to some of the challenges identified in the first report and in particular the importance of government officials and practitioners in exploring how international green infrastructure plans could be applied in the Gauteng context This third report builds on the findings of the aforementioned reports and the project s CityLab series which highlighted the need to build an evidence base as critical for garnering support for and as well as enhancing investment in the GI approach Unlike the more theoretically grounded earlier reports this report comprises four technical sections and practical reflections on how a GI approach could be incorporated into urban planning in the GCR and in other similar urban contexts Social Memory as a Force for Social and Economic Transformation Muxe Nkondo, 2023-02-01 This volume of essays is a reflection on social memory as a force for social and economic transformation Written by scholars and organic intellectuals it focuses on the uses of social memory in particular the conflict between the legacies of colonialism and the movement for fundamental change The content addresses both experts and ordinary citizens alike with a view to advancing discourse on where we are right now and how we move on from here to achieve meaningful transformation As scholars and public representatives with a deep understanding of the social economic and political dynamics of modern history of South Africa the contributors offer their unique perspectives and reflections on history politics economics culture education ethics and the arts as well as the links that bind these aspects into an ecology of ideas and attitudes Transdisciplinary Engineering: A Paradigm Shift C.-H. Chen,A.C. Trappey,M.

Peruzzini,2017-07-20 Concurrent Engineering is based on the concept that different phases of a product life cycle should be conducted concurrently and initiated as early as possible within the Product Creation Process PCP Its main goal is to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the PCP and reduce errors in the later stages and to incorporate considerations for the full lifecycle through life operations and environmental issues of the product It has become the substantive basic methodology in many industries and the initial basic concepts have matured and become the foundation of many new ideas methodologies initiatives approaches and tools This book presents the proceedings of the 24th ISPE Inc International Conference on Transdisciplinary formerly Concurrent Engineering TE 2017 held in Singapore in July 2017 The 120 peer reviewed papers in the book are divided into 16 sections air transport and traffic operations and management risk aware supply chain intelligence product innovation and marketing management human factors in design human engineering design methods and tools decision supporting tools and methods concurrent engineering knowledge based engineering collaborative engineering engineering for sustainability service design digital manufacturing design automation artificial intelligence and data analytics smart systems and the Internet of Things The book provides a comprehensive overview of recent advances in transdisciplinary concurrent engineering research and applications and will be of interest to researchers design practitioners and educators working in the field Understanding Education for the Visually Impaired Ronél Ferreira,Maximus M.

Sefotho,2020-12-31 The contribution that this book makes to scholarship is regarded as ground breaking as it is based on recent research conducted with teachers on the ground level as well as on research and experiences of practitioners gained over many years In this volume Understanding education for the visually impaired the focus falls on understanding visual impairment within the South African context more specifically on what the education of these learners entails In addition to the contribution to existing literature in the fields of inclusive education and visual impairment the publication has practical application value for teachers and practitioners who work with and support such learners The Urban Ecologies of Divided Cities Amira Osman,John Nagle,Sabyasachi Tripathi,2023-06-12 The book discusses how division affect the fabric of cities and people s sense of identity and agency and are reflected in physical features architecture and urban planning The question of divided cities represents a complex and multistranded urban Ecology at once both social and spatial it cannot be limited to a single science or discipline such as social or spatial fields This suggests integrated and cross disciplinary understandings as well as integrated or parallel approaches and solutions Urban ecologies of division manifest in multiple forms One of their most palpable expressions is conflict with parallels around the world and often with correlations in the spatial fabric Violence in such contexts is often a surface expression of deeper socio economic or ideological differences Whether as a result of intervention by authority or by dissent between groups a divided city inevitably becomes a place of conflict in various forms and intensity eroding the joy of living and sense of collective belonging to the detriment of all In effect it erodes the collective advantage of being part of a more unified society A city exists in collections of social structures which mutually form a society A divided city implies divided social structures and in consequence a divided society The papers compiled in this book present many case studies of divided cities discussing the different causes of divisions and their effects on societies Some of the causes can be linked to conflicts wars colonialism or legislative political systems In response to the serious challenges resulting from these divisions the book aims to provide opportunities for new approaches and possibilities for new interventions and solutions making it significant to urban planners architects and policymakers

Between Time and Space Sulevi Riikulehto, 2015-05-13 In new regional history national states are not seen to play a special role Regions are understood as evolutionary processes in which time and space history and geography are connected in research questions To illustrate the entanglement of time and space in various forms and ages this volume explores regional history from around the globe The editor's review of the various works written under the heading of regional history serves as an introduction to this theme This volume shows how historical events and changes have influenced the reproduction of regions in Czechia it will also highlight how regional identities were manifested in a cultural form in romantic operas of post Napoleonic Europe The historically rich West Wits Line gold mining region in the West Rand of South Africa is also examined within a regional history framework with the broad theme of ecohealth and well being Through case studies the volume also explores the history of governance and planning in New Zealand's largest city region Auckland as well as the recent economic history of the State of Mato Grosso in Brazil Finally it also brings the idea of regional history to the most personal level of historical consciousness by examining the experiential shaping of home in the broader meaning of Heimat as a question of belonging somewhere both in time and in space

Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman, 2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry/academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region

Community-Based Tourism in the Developing World Peter Wiltshier, Alan Clarke, 2019-10-16 This book analyses community based approaches to developing and regenerating tourism destinations in the developing world addressing this central issue in sustainable tourism practices It reviews a variety of systems useful for analysing and understanding management issues to offer new insight into the skills and resources that are needed for implementation ongoing monitoring and review of community based tourism Adopting a multidisciplinary approach this book explores alternatives to the dominant interpretation which argues against tourism as a benefit for community development International case studies throughout the book illustrate and vouch for tourism as a transformative force while clarifying the need to manage expectations in sustainable tourism for community development rejuvenation and regeneration Emphasis is placed on accruing relevant decision support material and creating services products and management approaches that will endure and adapt as change necessitates This will be of great interest to upper level students researchers and academics in the fields of tourism impacts sustainability ethics and development as well as the broader field of geography

One Virus, Two Countries Steven Friedman, 2021-11-01 Has South Africa done well at limiting illness and deaths during the COVID 19 pandemic Academic and political commentator Steven Friedman thinks not While the country's mainstream media believes it has in his view the evidence tells another story South Africa has experienced by far the most cases and deaths in Africa at one point as many as the rest of the continent combined One Virus Two Countries What Covid 19 tells us about South Africa offers a searing analysis of government and expert scientists responses to the pandemic Friedman argues that South Africa is two societies in one a First World which resembles Western Europe and North America and a Third World which looks much like the rest of Africa or South Asia The South African state the media and the scientific community have largely tried to deal with the virus through a First World lens in which much of the country was either invisible or a problem not a partner Friedman argues this approach prevented the country from responding in a way which would have protected most citizens This is why case numbers and deaths are so high South Africa has done worse than the rest of Africa not despite the fact that it has a more developed health system but because it does One Virus Two Countries is a controversial book that will rouse much needed debate about South Africa's health and economic system in a context of serious inequality
